Medicine

Gin is a clear spirit and is produced on the basis of high-proof neutral alcohol. The flavour-giving botanicals are herbs, spices, roots and fruits, with a juniper flavour dominating. The history of gin begins in the field of medicine. In the middle of the 17th century, the Dutch doctor Franciscus Sylvius attempted to develop a remedy for stomach and kidney diseases from a juniper distillate - "jenever" (Dutch "jenever", juniper). It was only when the British learnt about juniper schnapps during the Dutch-Spanish War that it was given the name "gin".

VODKA

Danzka Vodka Red	€ 4.50
Vodka Grey Goose	€ 7.00
Vodka Belvedere	€ 7.00
Crystal Head Vodka	€ 7.00

Water

Compared with other spirits, vodka has an almost neutral taste and contains no flavourings. In Russia and Poland, it is often drunk neat as an accompaniment. The vodka is made from traditional grains, potatoes, sugar molasses and other fermentable organic ingredients. The name "vodka" comes from the Slavic language and means "little water", as it is as clear as water.

RUM

Havana Club 7 Años	€ 5.60
Pyrat Rum XO Reserve	€ 6.30
Havana Club Selección de Maestros	€ 8.50
Trois Rivieres Cuvee De Lócean	€ 8.50

Matusalem Gran Reserva	€ 8.50
Companero Extra Anejo Panama 54%	€ 8.50
Ron Zacapa Centenario XO	€ 15.00
CLEMENT Rum Select Barrel	€ 10.00

Sugar cane spirit

Rum is not based on grain or a fruit like other spirits but on the raw material sugar cane. In contrast to most sugar cane spirits, a good rum is characterised by long maturation in wooden barrels. The longer the distillate matures in wooden barrels, the more rounded its aromatic flavour becomes. In the 19th century, rum was highly valued for its ability to cleanse the hair and strengthen its roots.

TEQUILA

Cuervo 1800 Reserva Añejo	€ 7.00
Gran Corralejo Añejo	€ 12.00

Blue agave

Only the blue agave in the town of Tequila is used to make the tequila, which is why it is a protected designation of origin. Each individual agave planted for tequila production has its own inspection number and its growth is monitored by the authorities until the authorised harvest. For these reasons, tequila is the most strictly controlled and regulated spirit in the world, and physicists have discovered how to produce artificial diamonds from tequila. Unfortunately, synthetic diamonds are too small to be made into jewellery.

But no pleasure is fleeting, for THE IMPRESSION it leaves behind is lasting.

Water of life

Did you know that only the Scottish whisky can be spelt without an "e"?
And that the whisky loses approx. 2% alcohol per year when stored in a cask?

A blended whisky is a blend of grain and malt whisky. Grain is a whisky that is made from maize, wheat or unmalted barley or rye. Malt whisky is a whisky that is made exclusively from malt.

The speciality of the single malt is that it only comes from a single distillery and is therefore not a blend of several types of whisky.
Secondly, only malted grain is used for production.

"Whisky" is a Gaelic word and means "water of life".

COGNAC

Frapin VIP XO Grand Champagne — €12.00
Bache-Gabrielsen Thomas XO Prestige, Réserve Edition — €10.00

Diluted

Cognac refers to a brandy from the French town of Cognac and is therefore protected by a designation of origin. In the 16th century, the wine was distilled to improve its shelf life and reduce the volume required for transport. This was because, originally, the wine was intended to be diluted with water again in the country of export. However, as early as the 17th century, merchants noticed that the flavour of cognac improved with longer barrel ageing. Right up until the end of the 19th century, cognac was diluted back to wine alcohol strength before being consumed.

BRANDY

Carlos Primero — €4.80
Cardenal Mendoza Gran Reserva — €5.60
Lepanto Brandy de Jerez — €8.30

Temperature gauge

A brandy is a wine spirit that is made exclusively from wine distillates and brandy. Depending on the length of maturation, it can be rather intense or mild. Some of the earliest thermometers, which were made in the 17th century, were The brandies used in the 19th century contained brandy instead of mercury. The brandy was eventually replaced by mercury because mercury in the liquid state has a wider temperature range.

GRAPPA

In barriques lo Chardonnay di Nonino — €6.30
In barriques il Prosecco di Nonino — €6.30
Nonino Riserva Antica Cuvée from the pipette — €9.90

Grape

The name "grappa" originally comes from the Italian word "grappolo", which means "grape" in German. Grappa is a distillate made from the skins of the grape, the so-called residue. Grappa is therefore a marc spirit.

FRUIT BRANDIES

Kotenzer Aged Apple (40%)	€6.40
Kostenzer Aged Mirabelle Plum (40%)	€8,50
Kostenzer Aged Damson Plum (40%)	€8.50
Kostenzer Aged Pear (40%)	€8.50
Kostenzer Cigar Bock Beer (45%)	€5.60

Fruit

Fruit brandy is a spirit that is produced from fruit through a natural process of fermentation. During fermentation, the natural sugar content of the fruit is partly converted into alcohol, which is then distilled.

Lump of sugar

Liqueurs are produced by flavouring spirits with at least 100 grams of sugar per litre of liqueur. Cream, berries, milk, fruit and wine can also be added to make liqueurs.

SHERRY & PORT WINE

Sherry Emilio Lustau – Amontillado Los Arcos	€5.00
Sherry Emilio Lustau – East India Solera	€5.00
Graham's Tawny Port 10 Years	€5.70
Graham's Tawny Port 30 Years	€12.00

Refined

Sherry has its roots in Spain and is made from Palomino-Fino grapes. The special thing about sherry is that it first becomes a dry white wine before it is refined with high-proof alcohol at the end of the fermentation process. Port wine, on the other hand, has its roots in Portugal and is made from different grape varieties. Unlike sherry, port wine is based on a red wine that is also refined with high-proof alcohol at a later stage.
