Privacy and Information Sharing

The City of Armadale is committed to protecting your privacy and handling personal information responsibly. Our Privacy and Information Sharing Policy explains how the City collects, uses, stores, shares and disposes of personal information in line with legal and operational requirements. The policy also outlines how the City manages information sharing arrangements where permitted or required by law. The City collects personal information to deliver services, respond to requests, manage community programs, meet legal obligations and support the day-to-day operations of local government. We take reasonable steps to ensure personal information is handled securely and only accessed by authorised staff. For more information on how the City of Armadale handles your personal information please refer to our Personal Information Collection Notice on our website.
