Liform: transformation by vocation

15.4.02 h 16.15

Devised for a lifestyle which takes in continuous movement are two proposals from a New York designer who with tireless energy provided live demonstrations of their evolution. The "Momo" minibar – comprised of shelves for bottles, sliding units for glasses and a detachable tray – by folding away the legs can be transformed into a low table for a romantic Japanese dinner for two and after use stored away under the bed.

The "Boris" credenza has a less varied performance but proves to be well equipped with the inclusion of removable CD racks which can be set into the top or keep stored in the cupboard and space for a stereo system.
