Welcome to Teladoc Health's Personal Health Navigator.	The Teladoc Health logo appears on a mobile phone screen.
When you don't have time to search for answers to your questions about a diagnosis or treatment plan, your Personal Health Navigator can help.	A woman holding a baby in one arm and bags in the other is on her phone while she opens the door to her house.
We can provide a variety of information that's condition-specific from a registered healthcare professional including articles and community resources to assist with your medical needs.	A professional sits and writes notes at a counter, which transitions to a dad with his son on his lap, sitting with his laptop at a table.
Personal Health Navigator is led by a team of Teladoc Health registered nurses to coach, support and guide you on the right path to wellness, so you can navigate the healthcare system with confidence.	The screen splits into four sections showing various healthcare professionals working and smiling.
If your questions can't be answered in your intake call, we will research resources and information to support you and provide you with a final summary.	A female doctor sits and works at a computer to research patient questions. This transitions to a woman reviewing something on her laptop while talking on the phone.
With Personal Health Navigator, we will help you locate clinics or professionals who can help with your day-to-day health.	A female doctor greets a patient and the screen transitions to a patient on a couch asking questions.
Get on-demand information specific to your medical needs with Personal Health Navigator today.	A patient is holding their mobile phone while on a video call with a doctor.
