Maritime Anti-Corruption Network (MACN)

Transparent Trade Routes

Strengthening Integrity in Maritime Supply Chains

	Implementation Country Indonesia, Malaysia, Germany	Funding Volume € 1,20 m	Project Duration 3 years
---	--	----------------------------	-----------------------------

Project Summary

Corruption in maritime and hinterland transport delays cargo, increases trade costs, and undermines development. Small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs), the backbone of maritime supply chains, are particularly exposed but often lack the tools to act. This project tackles these risks by bringing private and public stakeholders together, promoting Collective Action, and by strengthening compliance capacity.

In Indonesia, the project will establish a Private Sector Collective Action Alliance, deliver integrity training, and embed structured public-private dialogue, with the long-term goal of launching MACN's award-winning HelpDesk, a real-time escalation tool to resolve corrupt demands. In Malaysia, the project will encourage reporting, expand Collective Action, provide anti-bribery training, and foster government engagement to translate laws into industry practices.

In Germany, where SMEs face compliance risks linked to sanctions and export controls, the project will develop and deliver tailored training and tools, sustained through MACN's Associate Membership model. Together, these efforts will empower the private sector to resist and report corruption, support public sector reforms, and strengthen the resilience and competitiveness of global supply chains.

Integrity Partner Organization summary

MACN and its members work towards the elimination of all forms of maritime corruption by raising awareness of the challenges faced, implementing the MACN Anti-Corruption Principles and co-developing and sharing best practices, collaborating with governments, non-governmental organizations, and civil society to identify and mitigate the root causes of corruption, and creating a culture of integrity within the maritime community.

Project Summary

This project aims to foster fairer market conditions and promote integrity in countries with strong growth potential but with integrity risks.

The project employs a dual approach:

1. In Serbia and Albania, it launches Collective Action initiatives to create anti-corruption policy guidance and reforms, with a focus on supply chains, SMEs, digital industries, infrastructure, and mobility. It leverages the findings of the SME Policy Index for the Western Balkans and Türkiye to support fact-based, transparent policymaking and will train SMEs on integrity standards.
2. In all four countries, the project brings the latest anti-corruption knowledge to universities, training lecturers and students, especially in digital and mobility sectors. The initiative addresses ethical leadership, AI, illicit supply chains, and compliance risks, aiming to integrate new tech for integrity. Four country-specific Collective Action Communities unite government, academia, businesses, and civil society. Building on earlier Siemens Integrity Initiative successes, the project deepens university and SME engagement, with OECD expertise driving sustainable reform and stakeholder commitment.
