Background

Steve Flagg is the Chief Executive Officer and founder of Supplyframe, which he launched in 2003. He drives the vision and strategy behind Supplyframe's pioneering Design to Source Intelligence platform for global manufacturers and suppliers, which is transforming how people and businesses design, source, market and sell products across the global electronics value chain. Before founding SupplyFrame, Steve was VP of Sales & Business Development at eConnections, a cloud-based supply chain management platform. Previously, Steve ran business units at distributors Avnet and Marshall Industries.
