Our sustainability strategy

We are proud to release IOB's Sustainability Strategy 2023-2026. As an education partner for the financial services sector, IOB has a unique and important role in supporting our transition to a green economy and in supporting good governance, culture, diversity and inclusion within the industry.

At IOB, we believe in the power of education. Learning can spark change and accelerate transformation. At this critical time in Ireland's sustainability journey, we are passionate about supporting IOB members to develop the knowledge, skills and expertise required to improve and increase environmental, social and governance practices.

As we look to mitigate the worsening impact of the climate crisis and accelerate progress towards a net zero economy, financial services organisations are key stakeholders in driving investment and innovation in green technology and initiatives. To support our members to become leaders in this critical area, we are growing our portfolio of sustainable finance education programmes and resources.

We will continue to support the sector's efforts to enhance ethics and culture practices. We will also strengthen and grow our initiatives to promote diversity, equity and inclusion. Diverse teams bring distinct perspectives and ideas, helping to foster innovation and improve decision-making.

As we work to achieve these positive changes, managing our own impacts within IOB is an important focus. We are committed to enhancing our policies and procedures to further improve IOB's environmental, social and governance performance.

The vision set out in this Strategy can only be realised with the support of the IOB team, our Council, associate faculty and – most importantly – our members. Our purpose – to educate, enable and empower Ireland's community of financial services professionals – is as critical now as ever before. Together we will work to build a more equal, inclusive and sustainable financial services sector.
