Rahul Roy-Chowdhury is the Chief Executive Officer at Grammarly. He's passionate about leveraging AI to make every conversation at work measurably more valuable. Previously, Rahul led product at Grammarly.

Before joining Grammarly, Rahul led privacy, safety, and security teams at Google and helmed the product management teams for the Chrome browser and Chrome OS. Prior to his time at Google—and long before the current AI boom—Rahul enrolled in a PhD program to study artificial intelligence, a domain he's been passionate about for more than 20 years.

Rahul holds a BS in mathematics from Hamilton College, an MS in computer science from Columbia University, and an MBA from Stanford Graduate School of Business.

Outside of work, Rahul mentors entrepreneurs, sharing his experiences and lessons learned. He also enjoys a good dad joke, which his children find amusing despite what they say.
