

Digital literacy poster: Your online reputation

Create a poster that can raise awareness and change public attitudes about the importance of protecting and positively managing your online reputation. Choosing from one of the tips below, illustrate how this advice can help you stay in control of your online reputation.

a. Think before you post:

what you post, like and share on social media can have real consequences. Posting pictures of yourself or tagging others in inappropriate situations can hinder careers and dreams. Respect yourself and others in both your digital and physical world.

b. Don't be a bystander:

how witnesses react to cyberbullying can make a big difference. You can comfort the target privately, report the behaviour to the service provider, or seek help from a trusted adult. Make cyberbullying socially unacceptable and help create a positive, friendlier world online.

c. Reduce identity theft:

don't share private information on social media, deactivate accounts and delete apps you no longer use.
