The Cotswolds: Exploring England's Classic Countryside

Discover Highlights & Hidden Corners of Britain's Most Enchanting Landscape

On walks through ancient beech forest and tranquil meadows, along hedgerows and narrow cobbled lanes, an idyllic tableau of traditional England awaits. The Cotswolds is Britain's largest designated National Landscape, 800 square miles of glorious scenery: picture-postcard villages of honey-colored stone, pastures dotted with sheep, medieval church spires and burbling streams. On a full-week foray into a setting most visitors merely skim, explore secret byways and hidden hamlets, with private tours of lavish gardens, artisan farms, gourmet picnics, and pints at local pubs that date back centuries. Enjoy exclusive access to Highgrove House Gardens on the royal estate of King Charles III, where a private tea awaits. In the evenings, Britain's finest country house hotels provide a luxurious retreat, renowned for their bucolic settings and sustainable farm-to-table fare. Discover a romantic rural sojourn that's decidedly genteel.

Day 1

Oxford / Tetbury

Explore Oxford's historic colleges before entering the Cotswolds

- Walk through Oxford past university colleges and the 15th-century Bodleian Library
- Travel west into Britain's largest National Landscape
- Join your Expedition Leader and fellow travelers for a welcome dinner in Tetbury

Our Cotswolds sojourn begins this afternoon in Oxford with a guided walking tour of England's most famous university town. Admire the architecture and heritage of the 15th-century Bodleian Library and several of the colleges that comprise Oxford University, founded by King Henry VIII in 1546. Leaving Oxford, we head west into the heart of the Cotswolds. This rural region, whose name comes from the Old English "cot" for sheep enclosure and "wold," meaning hill—"sheep pens among rolling hills"—spans 800 square miles and is protected as Britain's largest National Landscape. Our destination for the next two nights is Tetbury, where a welcome dinner awaits at our inn. Tetbury lies among gently rolling hills on the site of an ancient hill fort, and during the Middle Ages, it became an important market town for Cotswold wool and yarn, which was the main source of the town's wealth.

Day 2

Westonbirt National Arboretum

Explore Badminton Estate with Lady Bella Somerset

- Meet Lady Bella Somerset and learn about aristocratic life in Britain during a private walk through the estate's deer park
- Enjoy a private visit to Westonbirt National Arboretum, home to more than 2,500 tree species
- Visit a Tetbury pottery studio to meet an expert ceramicist and learn about the town's ties to the Arts & Crafts Movement

This morning, visit Hookhouse Pottery to meet expert ceramicist Chris and learn about the Cotswolds' long association with the Arts and Crafts Movement. See his work firsthand as he shares insights into his craft and the artistic traditions that took root in this part of England.

Continue to Westonbirt National Arboretum for a private guided tour of one of the world's most significant tree collections. More than 2,500 species grow across the arboretum, including rare and unusual trees gathered from around the globe. The collection dates to 1829, when wealthy Victorian landowner Robert Holford began creating an arboretum on his estate. As Britain's interest in botany and plant collecting expanded during the 19th century, Holford helped finance expeditions that brought new species back from distant regions, and some of those early specimens still grow at Westonbirt today. As we explore, learn about the arboretum's continuing role in plant research, conservation and the protection of threatened tree species.

After a picnic lunch, meet Lady Bella Somerset for a private walking tour of the Badminton Estate deer park. Over the course of two hours, explore the grounds in her company while learning about the estate, its history and the role of Britain's aristocratic families today.

Day 3

Highgrove House / Painswick Rococo Garden

Tour King Charles III's private gardens at Highgrove

- Explore gardens developed over more than 35 years around the royal residence
- Walk from Prinknash Abbey to Painswick Beacon for views across the Severn Valley to Wales
- Join the head gardener for a private tour of England's only surviving rococo garden

This morning, enjoy a private guided tour of the gardens at Highgrove House, the country residence of HRH King Charles III, who is an ardent supporter of rural landscapes and wildlife conservation in Britain. Such was his love for the landscape, history and people of the Cotswolds that Charles chose to make this 1796 manor house his personal home. The gardens, more than 35 years in the making, reflect great diversity, from the genteel setting of the Sundial Garden to the unstructured beauty of the Wildflower Meadow.

Following lunch at Highgrove, head to Prinknash Abbey, home to a Benedictine monastic community devoted to a live a life of prayer, work and study. The abbey is the starting point for a scenic walk on woodland trails to Painswick Beacon, an Iron Age hill fort offering 360° views over the Severn Valley and across to Wales. From here, we continue to Painswick Rococo Garden, tucked into a hidden valley just off the famous Cotswold Way footpath, for a private tour with the head gardener. Designed in the 1740s for the owner of Painswick House, it was restored in the 1980s to evoke its original sense of fanciful whimsy and joie de vivre. "Rococo" refers to a period of art fashionable in Europe in the 18th century, characterized by ornamental decoration. England's upper middle classes loved to show off their wealth by indulging in the flamboyant and frivolous, and gardens like this one were an elaborate entertainment space to delight their guests. Today, it is England's only surviving rococo garden. Highlights of our tour may include heritage roses, fiery day lilies, an orchid-filled wildflower meadow, and a focus on butterfly conservation

Please note: On occasion, unexpected changes in the King's schedule may force us to alter or cancel our visit to Highgrove House and Gardens today, since it is his personal residence. When that is the case, we will try to go on another date, or we will substitute an alternate activity.

Day 4

Througham Court / Slad Valley

Enter a private Arts and Crafts garden at Througham Court

- Tour Christine Facer Hoffman's six-acre estate, normally closed to the public
- See how Arts and Crafts design meets scientific ideas in gardens inspired by the planets and Fibonacci sequence
- Walk through the Slad Valley and its four small nature reserves after lunch at Laurie Lee's favored Woolpack Pub

This morning, we join a local storyteller for a walk through the Slad Valley, which reveals an idyllic vale untouched by development, with four small nature reserves to explore. This region was once the heart of England's wool industry in the Middle Ages, which generated so much wealth for the Cotswolds. Continue to the village of Slad where we have lunch at the famous Woolpack Pub, a favorite of novelist and poet Laurie Lee. The Cotswolds' most famous author, Lee was raised in this tiny town that remains largely overlooked by tourism

After lunch, we tour a very special private garden at Througham Court that offers a window on the influential Arts and Crafts Movement in Britain. By the early 20th century, the Cotswolds had become an important center for the movement, which favored the handmade and vernacular over industrial mass-production. Headed by poet and designer William Morris, the approach sought to marry practicality with artistry through traditional craftsmanship. In addition to its influence on interior decoration, the philosophy shaped garden design, and we witness that heritage at Througham Court. Off limits to the general public, the 6-acre grounds are garden designer Christine Facer Hoffman's private estate, hidden away in a remote Cotswold valley. In addition to stewarding the original 1930s Arts and Crafts landscape designed by famed Cotswold architect Norman Jewson—known for its manicured yew topiaries and dry stone wall terracing—Hoffman has expanded her garden for use as a personal "laboratory" to experiment with new concepts. An esteemed scientist before she became a landscape architect and horticulturalist, Hoffman's contemporary garden areas are inspired by scientific principles and theories found in nature. Explore the universe in the Cosmic Evolution Garden, with stone spheres representing the planets, and follow Fibonacci's Walk in the meadow, enlightened by Hoffman's personal interpretation.

Aug-Oct departures: For departures after August 1, when Througham Court's gardens are closed for the season, we instead explore the area's rich Arts and Crafts heritage with a local expert who has devoted her studies to the movement. Together, we tour Painswick and the surrounding Painswick Beacon area, discovering important sites and stories that reveal the region's deep connections to Arts and Crafts history.

Day 5

Walk the Monarch's Way / Private Falconry Experience / Upper Slaughter

Handle and watch birds of prey with a British falconer

- Hike a portion of the Monarch's Way past woodlands and babbling streams
- Meet hawks, owls, falcons and eagles during a private interactive experience
- Settle into a country house hotel in Upper Slaughter

Our day begins with a hike through the rolling countryside around Chedworth, where wooded valleys, clear streams and open farmland create a classic Cotswolds landscape. Several routes are possible depending on conditions, including a walk that crosses three scenic valleys. Beginning near the River Churn in Rendcomb, the trail follows a stretch of the Monarch's Way before crossing Chedworth Stream and continuing through peaceful woodland to the River Coln. Along the way, take in broad views across the hills and valleys, passing farmland, streams, woodland and small villages.

This afternoon, we arrive in the tiny hamlet of Upper Slaughter, where we find the luxurious country house hotel that will be our home for the next three nights. Here, join a local falconer for an interactive introduction to Britain's centuries-old tradition of falconry. Meet several birds of prey—typically including a hawk, owl, falcon and eagle—and have the opportunity to handle them at close range and watch them take flight. As we learn about the different species, their remarkable adaptations and the long history of falconry in Britain, our expert host offers a fascinating window into the relationship between people and these powerful raptors.

Day 6

Cotswold Villages / Honeydale Farm

See how farming and conservation sustain the Cotswold landscape

- Rise early to identify songbirds during the dawn chorus with a local naturalist
- Explore the stone villages of Stanway, Stanton and Snowshill
- Tour Honeydale Farm privately to learn about regenerative agriculture, heritage crops and its micro dairy

Rise early for a sunrise bird walk with a local naturalist, who helps us identify the songbirds we hear as they greet the morning in an exuberant dawn chorus. Return to the inn for a hearty English breakfast, then set out to explore a collection of small Cotswolds villages, starting in Stanway, which is famous for its Jacobean manor house with a gravity-fed fountain that reaches heights of nearly 300 feet. Neighboring Stanton is considered one of the most picturesque towns in the Cotswolds. Many of its cottages were built in the mid-1500s, and the church dates to the 9th century. Continue to Snowshill, built of golden Cotswold limestone, which lies near two long-distance footpaths, the Winchcombe Way and the Cotswold Way.

As we weave our way through the bucolic landscape, we observe how the traditional rural heritage of the Cotswolds has shaped the region over the centuries. More than 80% of these rolling hills is agricultural land. Nature here has been managed and conserved by the farming community, which continues its commitment to careful stewardship today. At Honeydale Farm, learn about sustainable agriculture in the Cotswolds. Committed to ecological farming and public education, the FarmED program on the 107-acre site seeks to reconnect people to the land in ways that will nourish them and the Earth both. Our private guided tour covers the heritage orchard, kitchen garden, meadows and woodland as we learn about natural flood management, regenerative agriculture, the micro dairy, and the heritage wheat the farm grows for artisan bread making. This evening, enjoy a dinner featuring local farm-to-table fare at an inviting country inn.

Day 7

Hidcote Gardens

Watch sheepdogs work a flock on a Cotswold farm

- See how trained dogs respond to a handler's commands to move sheep
- Walk from Ebrington to Hidcote across fields, farm tracks and rolling hills
- Tour Hidcote Gardens privately before a farewell dinner

This morning, watch a live sheepdog demonstration at Mickleton Farm, where we learn about the communication between the dogs and their handlers and witness the remarkable way the sheep respond to the dogs' movements. Then we enjoy another village-to-village walk, connecting our lunch stop in Ebrington with our garden tour at Hidcote, as we amble across the rolling hills of the northern Cotswolds. Following paths through grassy fields along ancient farm tracks and quiet lanes, traverse open countryside with expansive views. The route over the limestone terrain rises and falls gently, with a few steady climbs that offer more reward than challenge. Each season unveils its own natural beauty: spring unveils fresh green meadows and hedgerows strewn with wildflowers, summer offers dry, sun-warmed trails beneath lush, shady canopies, and autumn paints the countryside in rich golds and russets.

At Hidcote Gardens, we have private tour of this National Trust property regarded as one of the finest displays of flora in England. Hidcote's designer, Lawrence Johnstone, sourced plants for the gardens from around the world and donated the site to the National Trust in 1948—making it the first of many significant British gardens the Trust would acquire. This evening, a festive farewell dinner awaits as we gather around the table one last time.

Day 8

London

Depart the Cotswolds for London

- Transfer from Upper Slaughter to Heathrow Airport for homeward flights

Our Cotswolds journey comes to a close today. An early morning transfer is included from our hotel in Upper Slaughter to London's Heathrow Airport, about a two-hour drive, for those who are flying home or headed to other travels. If you choose to remain in the region for further exploration on your own, you can leave any time before scheduled checkout from our hotel—consider a visit to the UNESCO World Heritage Site of Blenheim Palace, Sudeley Castle, the Roman city of Bath, or Shakespeare's childhood home of Stratford-upon-Avon—all are nearby.

Please note: While all activities listed on our itinerary will be included, some may take place on days or times that are different from what is shown, depending on local schedules.

What Makes Cultural Journeys Different?

The Cotswolds: Exploring England's Classic Countryside

The Cotswolds—famous for its villages of golden limestone, exquisite gardens, small organic farms and grand country estates—embodies a vision of rural England that's rarely realized in contemporary times. We've gone to great lengths to design an encounter with the Cotswolds that delivers on that romantic expectation—but to find it, you must not choose a conventional tour. Find out what sets our Cotswolds journey apart:

1

Explore A Treasured National Landscape in Depth

The Cotswolds is Britain's largest National Landscape, one of 38 such areas of countryside in the UK designated for conservation in recognition of their outstanding rural beauty and land value. Most visitors to the Cotswolds come for just a day, often on a coach tour from London or Oxford, racing from one packed town to the next. In contrast, we've created a peaceful, personalized experience. Our itinerary features lesser-known places and interactions that reveal the true natural beauty of the Cotswolds, along with a more private take on famed highlights you wouldn't want to miss.

2

Private Tours & Exclusive Experiences

A hallmark of our itinerary is the number of special private experiences we've arranged. You won't be held up in long queues or bumping shoulders with dozens of other visitors at coveted sites. Enjoy private tours of Hidcote and Painswick gardens plus the royal gardens at Highgrove House; private falconry and sheep dog demonstrations; and other behind-the-scenes activities featuring presentations with local experts. We don't think you'll find anywhere near this privileged access on another trip!

3

A Small Group Offers Access to Less-Visited Destinations

With only 14 travelers, we can navigate narrow country roads and one-vehicle lanes hemmed by hedgerows, which are off limits to motorcoaches. We thus get to places others can't, including tiny villages that exude all the charm you expect in the Cotswolds, plus local pubs and family farms that can't accommodate bus tours. We're also able to stay in intimate inns with personalized service.

A Focus on Nature & Conservation

If you're inspired by examples of conserving nature and rural vistas amid human presence (after all, there have been people living, farming and working in the Cotswolds for 6,000 years), this trip is for you. Local families and the national government alike are dedicated to preserving and restoring these irreplaceable landscapes, which we discover on footpaths and scenic byways. In addition to admiring classic architecture and glorious gardens, we explore nature reserves of ancient hardwood forest, wildflower meadows, marshes, streams and hedgerows. We also witness the wonder of "rewilding," inspired by local efforts to return hard-worked terrain to its natural state.

Vibrant Traditions & Personal Connections

A Dedicated Expedition Leader, Plus Local Experts for Enhanced Interpretation

You'll benefit from the exceptional attention and flexibility from start to finish that only a Nat Hab Expedition Leader can provide. Our guides are a font of knowledge about the natural and cultural history of the Cotswolds, including conservation commitments that are central to preserving this uniquye landscape, villages and way of life. Local experts also lend detail and insight to augment your experience. From organic farmers and gardeners to bird conservationists and cheese makers, the specialist guides who join us add to your appreciation for the region, its nature and its people.

Country House Hotels Offer Luxury, History & Hospitality

Nature travel isn't necessarily about the accommodations. But in the Cotswolds—on our itinerary—they are a highlight! We've selected several of the region's finest country house hotels, with centuries of history and the character to go with it. We stay in the most idyllic Cotswolds settings, with inns set in peaceful stone villages, surrounded by gardens, manicured lawns, rolling countryside and wild nature. All offer elegant guest rooms and amenities, with dining rooms managed by award-winning chefs who tap local purveyors for the finest and freshest ingredients.

Farm-to-Table Food Culture Offers Outstanding Local Fare

There is a big emphasis in the Cotswolds on "field to fork" food: local, organic artisan production of cheese, cream, lamb, pork, trout, berries, honey, cider, ale and more. The inns and pubs where we take our meals source many of their ingredients from known local producers. For nature lovers who are also foodies, this trip won't disappoint!

8

Outstanding Expedition Leaders

We're known for the quality of our guides, and you'll find that the leadership on this trip is no exception! With a deep knowledge of England's diverse ecosystems, your Expedition Leader enhances your adventure in a way that makes you feel safe, cared for and enlightened. Read our Expedition Leader bios and traveler comments regarding the quality of our leaders.

9

Our Quality-Value Guarantee Ensures a Rewarding Experience

With Natural Habitat Adventures, you get our exclusive guarantee, promising that we will meet the lofty expectations set in our promotional materials. To our knowledge, this is the most impressive guarantee made by any adventure travel company. Read our important promise for yourself!

Feel Good About Your Carbon-Neutral Journey

We care deeply about our planet, as we know you do. When you travel with us, the carbon emissions from your trip are 100% offset—including your round-trip flights from home. Natural Habitat Adventures has been the world's first carbon-neutral travel company since 2007.

Included

Accommodations, services of Nat Hab's professional Expedition Leader(s) and local guides, all meals from dinner on Day 1 through breakfast on final day, some gratuities, airport transfer for those arriving by air on Day 1 and on final day, all activities and entrance fees, all taxes, permits and service fees.

Not Included

Travel to and from the start and end point of your trip, alcoholic beverages, some gratuities, passport and visa fees (if any), optional activities, items of a personal nature (phone calls, laundry, etc.), airline baggage fees, required medical evacuation insurance, optional travel protection insurance.

Important Information About This Trip

This refined culture and nature adventure is especially for those who value and appreciate the various aspects of this historic landscape where humans have been part of the mix for 6,000 years, living in harmony and stewarding the land. For travelers who have a special interest in protected traditions as well as conservation and historic preservation, the Cotswolds are like a living laboratory for observing this commitment in action. Garden aficionados will be in heaven on this trip. The Cotswolds' celebrated gardens, both grand and small-scale, are simply unsurpassed and we will enjoy multiple private garden tours. And for those who appreciate fine food and drink, and distinctive accommodations steeped in history and local character, our trip showcases some of Britain's very best.

Please note that on occasion, unexpected changes in the King's schedule may force us to alter or cancel our visit to Highgrove House and Gardens on Day 4, since it is his personal residence. When that is the case, we will try to go on another date, or we will substitute an alternate activity.

Mandatory Insurance

Since the areas we travel to are remote and wild (that's why we go there!), we require that all guests have, at minimum, medical evacuation insurance for this program. This is for the safety of all guests. We require that your chosen independent insurance plan includes at least $250,000 in medical evacuation coverage.

To protect your investment and to provide peace of mind while you travel, we also strongly recommend purchasing comprehensive travel insurance. Plans may cover everything from medical treatment to trip cancellations and delays and lost luggage. Please contact our office if you would like more information about the medical evacuation and comprehensive travel insurance policies we offer by calling 800-543-8917.

Getting There & Getting Home

This trip begins and ends in London. Arrive at Heathrow Airport by 9 am on Day 1 to join the group and transfer to Oxford for a guided walking tour and our Day 1 welcome dinner.

You may depart London any time after 11 am on the final day. Nat Hab will provide one group transfer to London Heathrow, typically departing early in the morning. Please keep this in mind when booking flights, as later departures may result in additional waiting time at the airport.

Our Natural Habitat Adventures Travel Desk can best assist with your travel reservations, as our staff is familiar with the specific requirements of this program and can help arrange the most efficient itinerary. Please call us at 800-543-8917. While we offer the best available rates to us on airfare and additional nights accommodations, you may occasionally find special web rates or lower fares online.
