

Ibero Latin America College of Dermatology

Session title *	Cases of Dermatology in Ibero Latin America
Learning objective #1 *	Recognize emerging skin diseases specific to Ibero Latin America, improving diagnostic accuracy and patient outcomes.
Learning objective #2 *	Analyze innovative treatment protocols and cutting-edge therapies that address the unique needs of Ibero Latin American populations.
Learning objective #3 *	Examine and evaluate successful public health strategies and community outreach programs to improve skin health and access to dermatological care in underserved areas.
Session description *
This symposium will provide a comprehensive overview of the unique dermatological cases and challenges encountered in Ibero Latin America. Targeted at international dermatologists, young physicians, general dermatologists, and specialists, the session aims to enhance the understanding and management of skin diseases specific to this diverse region. Key topics will include the identification and diagnosis of emerging skin diseases in Ibero Latin America, with a focus on improving diagnostic accuracy and patient outcomes. Participants will gain insights into innovative treatment protocols, learning about cutting-edge therapies and culturally appropriate care practices that address the unique needs of Ibero Latin American populations. Additionally, the session will explore successful public health strategies and community outreach programs implemented in the region. Attendees will learn how to assess and apply these strategies to improve skin health and access to dermatological care in underserved areas. By the end of the symposium, participants will be equipped with the knowledge and skills to recognize emerging skin diseases, analyze innovative treatment protocols, and examine effective public health strategies, ultimately enhancing their ability to provide superior dermatological care in diverse and challenging settings.	