

Annerie Vreugdenhil

Date of birth: 6 November 1963

Nationality: Dutch

Annerie Vreugdenhil (1963, nationality: Dutch) is proposed for appointment as member of the Executive Board and Chief Commercial Officer Personal & Business Banking of ABN AMRO Bank N.V. subject to the approval of the European Central Bank.

Annerie has over 34-year experience in the financial sector and proven track record in:

- being an empathic leader with a clear vision, a strong communicator, and an experienced banker with a strong client focus;
- creating and implementing new strategies, taking activities to the next level to reflect a changing environment;
- re-thinking ways of working and services, generating and building upon innovative ideas, creating successful start-ups.

Annerie started her career at British Petroleum Maatschappij Nederland B.V., but soon thereafter she started in the financial sector at the Nederlandse Credietbank N.V. as an assistant account manager for large corporates. After a year she joined Credit Lyonnais Bank Nederland N.V.

In April 1992, Annerie joined ING. In the following 29 years, she held various positions. She was appointed Head of Commercial Banking in the Netherlands in 2010 and became a member of the executive team of ING Bank Netherlands. In this role, she was responsible for strategy towards and for all business client relationships of ING in the Netherlands (covering the full range from SME to large corporates) as well as the products lease and commercial finance. From 2016 until 2018, as Global Head of Real Estate Finance, ING Wholesale Banking, she was responsible for the single largest asset class in ING, managing international teams in Europe, USA, Asia and Australia.

In 2018, Annerie was appointed as Head of Innovation at ING Wholesale Banking and in 2020 as Head of ING Neo and Chief Innovation Officer at ING. In this role, she was responsible for creating impact with innovations, through a buy, build or partner concept.
