Block Party Recap

Stacey Weinstein reported that all was ready for the Block Party and Plant Sale but the bad weather forced a cancellation on Saturday 5/7. PPUABA will attempt to reschedule the event in the fall, with a tentative date of 10/1.

Den Gordon, who organized the plant table said that all pre-orders were fulfilled and this netted a profit of approximately $900, which is comparable to the net from last year. Therefore, financially, the event was a success.

Marc Gordon thanked the many neighbors who worked on the event including Stacey Weinstein, Den Gordon, Robin Ketchum, Charmaine and Eric Koskinen and Al Bass.

Treasurer's Quarterly Report

Ed Regan first gave a recap of the finances of the Block Party and Plant Sale. The pre-ordered plants netted $911, expenses (permit application, etc.) were $208 and profit was $703.

Ed moved on to the Quarterly Treasurer's Report. The treasury began the year with $5,345 and ended the quarter with $5,813. The Treasurer's Report may be found in the Meeting Minutes page of the PPUABA website (ppuaba.org).

Featured Speaker – Ethan Mulligan – Implications of Court Rulings on NY Elections

Ethan Mulligan gave a talk about the current redistricting developments which has led to congressional incumbents such as Jerry Nadler and Carolyn Maloney competing in the same new district. As a result of the 2020 census, New York state has lost one representative, from a total of 27 to 26. The map of districts had to be redrawn to reflect this loss. When redistricting is done the most important principal is to keep communities of interest together. The Independent Redistricting Committee, which was responsible for the new map, failed to finalize a map when they split 5 to 5 on partisan lines. This sent the new map to the state legislature to resolve. The map created by the legislature was subject to a successful lawsuit and a special master Jonathan Cervas, was appointed to revise to create a final map. His map has been published and is going through a short review period, ending 5/20, at which point it will become law.

Because of the delay there will be 2 primary days this year, 6/28 (for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Attorney General, Comptroller and NY state assembly seats) and 8/23 for the House of Representatives and the NY State Senate seats.

PPUABA members will be in 10th district which has no current incumbent and will be contested by many prominent NY politicians.

Teddy Theoharis added that the redistricting ripples through other parts of government which use the congressional lines for purposes such as providing social services and this will cause additional work and changes for NY state and city.

Ethan added that the NYC City Council will be redistricted next year.
