

I Know How You Like Your Coffee

The Film

Synopsis

Sitting in swanky piano bar Nat-newly single-waits for her next date. Anticipating a flirty, fun distraction from her recent break-up, she is instead bombarded with questions about herself and her expectations. Patterns that seems all too familiar reveal themselves through her self-discovery.

Logline

Break-up, tinder-rebound, relationship. Repeat. Sound familiar? Same, but it's different this time.

The Directors

L. Fried

Traditionally working in graphic design, this is L's debut in both writing and directing a film. Her influences are Charlie Kaufmann and bisexual lighting in film. Outside of working on 'I know How You Like Your Coffee,' L screen prints out of her home while fantasizing about being featured on a podcast or Jeopardy!, and helps out with Seattle's hit live-weirdo gameshow, The Future is 0.
