McCarran Introduces Nursing Suites for Travelers

Las Vegas airport now offers dedicated spaces for breastfeeding mothers

LAS VEGAS – McCarran International Airport, the eighth-busiest airport in North America with more than 47.4 million passengers passing through in 2016, earlier this month opened three airport nursing suites that offer an intimate and private space for traveling nursing mothers.

"August is National Breastfeeding Awareness Month, a fitting time for us to roll out our nursing suites here at McCarran," said Rosemary Vassiliadis, the airport's director of aviation. "Whether they're flying for work or leisure, we're happy to provide breastfeeding moms with a clean and comfortable space of their own."

Traveling mothers will find three nursing suites at McCarran – one located on the skybridge connecting the C Concourse with the A and B gates; another placed near the children's play area in the D Concourse; and a third in Terminal 3 near Gate E-9. The suites are accessible to all and can be locked from the inside via an indicator deadbolt.

Created by Mamava, a company dedicated to transforming the culture of breastfeeding by making it easier for more women to achieve their breastfeeding goals, the Mamava suite is a self-contained, mobile pod with comfortable benches, a fold-down table, an electrical outlet for plugging in a breast pump, and a door that can be locked for privacy. The 4-foot by 8-foot pod is meant for individual use, but can fit more than one person, as well as mothers with babies and other children in tow.

"We're thrilled to support breastfeeding mamas traveling through McCarran International Airport," said Sascha Mayer, Co-founder and CEO of Mamava. "Mamava pods provide flexibility for facilities and easy access for moms to use a breast pump or breastfeed distraction-free."
