LAS Launches New Pilot Program to Support ASL Passengers

Harry Reid International Airport (LAS) is expanding its special assistance program by launching a new pilot program with the Aira ASL app, offering hearing impaired travelers live, on-demand American Sign Language (ASL) interpretation while at the airport. Arriving ahead of the 2025 DeafNation World Expo & Conference in Las Vegas, this program will welcome thousands of deaf and hard of hearing visitors with a more accessible and confident travel experience.

The Aira ASL app connects travelers with certified ASL interpreters through secure, live video calls directly from their smartphones, to help ensure clear communication during check-in, security screening, and while navigating the terminal. This service is available at no cost to travelers while they are at LAS and is also offered at Henderson Executive Airport (HND) and North Las Vegas Airport (VGT).

“Harry Reid International Airport is committed to ensuring every traveler feels welcome and supported throughout their journey,” said Rosemary Vassiliadis, Director of Aviation. “Adding the Aira ASL app broadens the resources we offer to passengers and complements our current suite of tools like the Aira Explorer app, helping travelers who are blind or very little vision, and the MagnusCards app, which helps guide travelers with cognitive disabilities through airport procedures.”

Travelers are encouraged to download the Aira ASL app prior to arrival or upon reaching the airport to receive seamless, live ASL support when needed during their journey. For more information, visit <https://aira.io/aira-asl-app>.
