

Core Sectors: Rural Diversification

“The masterplanning team work closely with our land agency and rural experts to assess rural landholdings and bring forward brownfield / greenfield sites for new development, including former farmsteads and other agricultural sites, where there is development potential.”

Our services including preparing feasibility studies for a range of rural sites. This could include anything from a barn conversion, a development of new homes, farm shops, leisure activities, or visitor attractions. Today's rural economy might even include holiday lets, glamping sites, or wedding venues. There are a variety of diversification options and increasingly farm businesses have a number of “strings to their bow”, providing a variety of income streams. Together with other teams in Carter Jonas, we help clients release the full potential of under-used assets.
