Part I, Line 1 and Part III, Line 1

charity: water is a non-profit organization bringing clean and safe drinking water to people in developing nations. charity: water inspires giving and empowers others to fundraise for sustainable water solutions. A separate, private group of supporters funds operational costs, allowing charity: water to use 100% of public donations to fund water projects. Donations are sent to our local partners, who build and implement the water projects. When the water projects are completed, we prove every one of them using GPS coordinates, photos and information about the community served.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4d - All Other Accomplishment

A small landlocked country in Southern Africa with a population of 17.2 million people, Malawi ranked 170 out of 188 on the most recent Human Development Index. Almost 37% of rural Malawians lack access to a basic water services and about 57% lack access to basic sanitation services. As a result, water related diseases (including dysentery, cholera, and typhoid) are a common problem and are exacerbated by the rapid spread of HIV/AIDS, as Malawi has one of the highest HIV/AIDS rates in the world at 9% of adults aged 15 to 49. In 2016, charity: water served 73,447 Malawian people by funding 271 water projects.

In Nepal, 15% of the population lives below the poverty line, contributing to its rank of 144 out of 188 on the Human Development Index. Of Nepal's rural population, 13% lack access basic water services and 55% lack access to basic sanitation services. Many existing water systems are poorly constructed, and a clean water supply is often intermittent or far away from the community. Nepal's geography is extremely mountainous, which poses unique challenges and opportunities in water project implementation, and natural disasters such as earthquakes, flooding, and landslides impede access to the most remote areas. In 2016, charity: water funded 259 water projects in Nepal that can serve 33,216 people.

Ranking 143 out of 188 on the Human Development Index, Cambodia has a population of approximately 15.6 million and is one of the poorest countries in East Asia. Access to sanitation and improved hygiene practices remains a considerable health challenge in rural areas, 30% of families lack access to basic water services, and 61% lack basic sanitation services. Monsoons and flooding often compound water quality issues and waterborne disease is one of the leading causes of illness in the country. In 2016, charity: water served 149,400 people in Cambodia by funding 659 water projects.

After its devastating civil war, Mozambique has faced extreme poverty and severe unhealthy living conditions, particularly as it relates to water quality. In addition, floods and earthquakes exacerbate the growing water crisis. With the 22nd highest child mortality rate in the world, many children don't see their fifth birthdays. Recently, Mozambique, ranked 181 out of 188 on the Human Development Index, has made access to clean water a major priority, as basic water and sanitation service coverage is currently extremely low, at 68% and 88% lacking access, respectively. In 2016, charity: water funded 76 water projects in Mozambique that can serve 27,242 people.

Mali ranks 175 out of 188 on the Human Development Index, with the seventh highest infant mortality rate and fourth highest birth rate in the world. Its growing population contributes to severe water access issues and Mali struggles to provide basic water sources to more than a third of its rural population; 37% of people in rural areas lack basic water services and 79% lack basic sanitation services. As a prolonged dry season and a very short rainy season deepen the water supply crisis, Mali will experience increasing pressure on its water resources. In 2016, charity: water helped serve 30,050 people in Mali by funding 56 water projects.

With the world's highest birth rate - half of the country's population is under 14 years old - and about 46% of the population living below the poverty line, Niger currently ranks at the bottom of the Human Development Index at 187 out of 188. Population growth poses a future problem for access to clean water, particularly in rural areas where currently 64% of people lack basic water services - with 94% lacking basic sanitation services. Waterborne diseases are among the leading causes of death, but access to clean water can dramatically improve health and life expectancy. In 2016, charity: water invested in 65 projects that can serve 32,250 people.

India is home to one of the largest populations of people living in poverty, and roughly 44% of children under age 5 are underweight. Ranking 131 out of 188 on the Human Development Index, India faces difficult barriers to development including population growth - it's the second most populous country - and a lack of basic sanitation services for about 66% of its rural population. Additionally, 15% of the rural population lacks access to a basic water services. In particular, the state of Bihar is characterized by extreme poverty and contains large populations of historically disadvantaged groups, especially Scheduled Caste and Tribe members. Bihar experiences high rates of health problems related to water and sanitation, particularly water quality issues including iron, arsenic and fluoride. Water scarcity is another threat to access in Rajasthan. The Thar Desert receives less than 20 inches of rain annually, and groundwater in the region is mostly saline, making it unsuitable for drinking. In 2016, charity: water served 26,542 people in these states by funding 570 water projects.
