

Digitize agreements and exceed customer expectations

The speed, simplicity, and convenience of digital interactions are reshaping customer expectations. Traditionally manual and cumbersome business transactions—such as loan applications, health insurance enrollment, real estate documents, and mobile phone subscriptions—are no longer necessary. Failure to meet these expectations can lead customers to abandon the process prematurely or switch to competitors that offer better experiences.

Poor experiences are a symptom of a bigger problem: underlying system fragmentation and siloed operations that complicate customer interactions. Despite digital advancements, agreement processes like filling out forms and verifying identities are often outdated and disconnected. Intelligent Agreement Management (IAM) is a new category of AI-powered cloud software that helps streamline and automate agreement processes. DocuSign IAM for CX enables you to easily embed digital agreement experiences into existing workflows and applications to:

Increase conversions

Optimize agreement touchpoints for speed and security to boost your conversion rates. Save your customers time by pre-filling data, embedding forms into existing workflows, and tailoring steps based on customer attributes like risk profile.

Minimize agreement friction

Serve your customers better
