Upon entering the monastery, he submitted a petition to be accepted to the monastery brethren. In 1976, the feast of St. Moses the Hungarian, the monastery rector, Bishop Laurus (Škurla) of Manhattan tonsured him a novice, fulfilling his obedience in the book-binding and icon painting workshops.

In 1980, Archbishop Laurus tonsured him into the Lesser Schema and given the name Luke in honor of the Holy Apostle and Evangelist Luke. On July 12, 1981, he was ordained a hieromonk. In 1978, he graduated from Holy Trinity Seminary. From 1979, he taught apologetics, the New Testament, creed and comparative theology. He held the post of inspector of the seminary, and later – its dean. In 1981 he graduated from the University of Syracuse (New York State). FAQs

Are the talks going to be recorded and offered at a later date?

Some of the talks may be recorded and offered but that will ultimately be decided when the conference concludes. The overriding focus is to provide a deep and meaningful retreat for all who are gathered together in person and to participate in the Divine services.

Can I come for just one of the three nights and some of the sessions?

At this time, we cannot break-up the Full Registration lodging packages. If you would like to be added to a waiting list to determine if we can accommodate your schedule at a later date please email: UMPadmin@icloud.com

If I live nearby, can I attend without staying at the venue?

Yes, you would choose a Commuter Registration which includes sessions and meals but does not include lodging.

Can we bring our children to the conference?

Yes, children are welcome. When you register please select a Child Meal Plan for each child and include all names and ages at check-out. Please keep in mind, this particular conference does not offer child care and youth activities are not planned. The Antiochian Village requires that youth under the age of 18 to be supervised by a parent or chaperone while on site.

How would I register if my husband and I brought our two children ages 3 and 5?

Register as “Full Registration (2 people) + 1 Child Meal Plan”. Since two adults are in the room it is considered Double Occupancy and therefore would register for two people. You would also select 1 Child Meal Plan for the 5-yr. old. Under age 4 is free.
