

MESSAGE FROM THE CEO

When Calvert Impact Capital launched the Community Investment Note® in 1995, the US sustainable investment market was sized at approximately $639 billion. Today, that number has exploded to more than $17 trillion domestically and $35 trillion globally.* There is an extraordinary amount of capital seeking impact and now our challenge as an industry is to focus on the quality of impact investments in addition to the volume.

We kicked off 2022 with a continued focus on communicating our impact and impact measurement and management practices, hosting a webinar to review our 2021 Impact Report and releasing an impact evaluation of one of the small business recovery funds. We continued to engage on key industry topics like gender lens investing, promoting our gender lens legal report and participating in several interviews during Women’s History Month. We were also named to the ImpactAssets 50 for the 11th year in a row and are proud to be continually recognized as an industry leader, especially as the impact investing industry continues its remarkable growth.

QUARTERLY HIGHLIGHTS

- We completed and published our 2021 Audited Financial Statements that showed our continued growth and financial strength.
- We closed a new loan to the Banco Internacional de Costa Rica \(BICSA\) to support small and medium-sized enterprises that operate with sustainable agriculture certifications such as Rainforest Alliance, Forest Stewardship Council, 4C, Organic, or Fair Trade. We also disbursed new capital to current portfolio partners Accial Capital and responsAbility MSME Fund.
- Alongside our CDFI partners, we released the results of a study conducted by 60 decibels, a leading impact evaluation firm, of the effect of the New York Forward Loan Fund on small business loan recipients. Of note: 57% stated their ability to maintain jobs increased because of the loan. Learn more in the report and webinar recording.
- Our Investor Relations and Impact Management staff hosted a webinar to review highlights from our 2021 Impact Report, including key impact indicators, stories from end clients, and contribution to the SDGs.
- Our CEO Jenn Pryce joined the Latin American Impact Investing Forum (FLII) for a panel on gender lens investing and was featured in two interviews, one on gender lens investing and the other on her career journey and industry insights.
- Our small business recovery work was featured in ImpactAlpha, the Mississippi Free Press, and the Seattle Times. We also contributed testimony to a California commission on the impact of the California Rebuilding Fund.

BORROWER SPOTLIGHT

One of PACE Equity's projects is repurposing two former NASA buildings near Cleveland, Ohio, one into energy efficient apartments and the second into an energy efficient hotel. PACE Equity is financing upgrades to the building's envelope, plumbing, insulation, and thermal moisture protection.

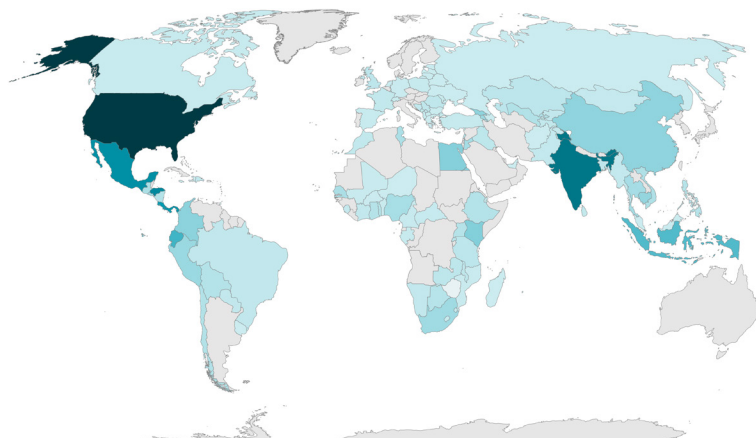

PACE Equity

Property Assessed Clean Energy financing, or PACE financing, is low-cost capital used to make energy efficiency improvements to commercial buildings – office, multifamily, senior housing, hospitality, retail, and others – including efficient HVAC, lighting, windows, and roofing, as well as renewable energy such as solar. Our borrower PACE Equity provides this innovative source of financing for building developers and manages every step of the process, leveraging in-house energy engineering expertise to optimize the potential of every project. On average, PACE Equity's projects have reduced energy and operations costs by $1 per square foot, a 50% improvement over baseline conditions, enabling energy and emissions reduction as well as cost savings.
