Cold War in Asia and Beyond

The end of the Cold War and the subsequent opening of archives in former colonies has enabled the reconstruction of Cold War history in a broad historical context connecting Asia with the United States, the Soviet Union, France, the Netherlands and other neighboring countries; the study of how the Cold War was played out in Asia is now a rapidly expanding field. This series welcomes the submission of book proposals that employ different methodologies and explore various aspects of the Cold War in Asia and beyond, including but not limited to high diplomacy, political history, economic networks, labour and trade unions, social life, cultural connections and activities at local, national, regional and global levels. It aims to promote cutting-edge scholarship, responding to the latest interests of academics and the reading public beyond academia.
