

EAST MEETS WEST: EAST ASIA AND ITS PERIPHERY, 200 BCE TO 1600 CE

The focus of East Meets West: East Asia and Its Periphery from 200 BCE to 1600 CE is the period roughly coterminous with Europe's late antique, medieval, and Renaissance periods. The series welcomes manuscripts on the textual, material, and intellectual cultures of East Asia, as well as studies of hemispheric flows of ideas, texts, and artifacts between East Asian civilizations or between East Asia and other civilizations. The focus of research, however, must be on the role of a particular East Asian culture or cultures within that exchange. The series is designed to provide maximum space for any apparatus, philological or otherwise, that provides a solid and informative cultural background for texts, visual images, or other objects.

Geographical Scope

East Asia, in its wider context

Chronological Scope

200 BCE – 1600 CE.

Keywords: Textual cultures of East Asia, material cultures of East Asia, intellectual cultures of East Asia, hemispheric exchange

Proposals Welcome

Submissions may be monographs or edited volumes of 70,000 or more words (particularly of interest in this regard are volumes which bring together the work of scholars from various disciplines and modern regions), or shorter "minigraphs" of 45,000 to 60,000 words.

Arc offers peer-review, a quick turnaround, and global book promotion at international conferences and through mailing lists.
