Health Facts for You

After Spinal or Epidural Anesthesia

This handout explains what to expect at home after spinal or epidural anesthesia.

Spinal or Epidural Anesthesia

These types of anesthesia are given through a small needle placed into the lower back. Your back may feel sore. This should get better over the next few days. Ask your surgeon what you can take to help the pain.

Have an adult stay with you for the rest of today and overnight. You may feel a little sleepy for the next 12 to 24 hours. This is from to the medicines you receive during and after surgery. Rest and relax for the next 12 hours.

For the Next 24 Hours

- Only light activity.
- Do not drive.
- Do not use machinery or power tools
- Do not drink alcohol.
- Do not make any important decisions.
- Do not sign important papers.
- Follow your doctor's advice about activity. Be careful when you sit or stand up. You may become dizzy if you sit or stand too quickly.

Diet

- Start slowly
- Drink clear liquids such as water, apple juice, and soft drinks.
- If you feel okay, you can try soup and soda crackers.
- Eat foods that are easy to digest.
- Avoid spicy or fatty foods.
- Drink at least 6-8 glasses of clear liquids so you don't get dehydrated.

• The next day you can eat a normal diet.
