

Inflatable Penile Implant Surgery Home Care

The penile implant is made of silicone and other things that the body does not reject. Problems after penile implants are rare.

After Surgery

- Your penis will likely be swollen and bruised for 4-6 weeks.
- You may have a tube to drain urine from your bladder for 24 hours after surgery.
- You will have some pain for up to 3 weeks after surgery. Take the pain medicine as directed by your doctor.
- You will take antibiotics to prevent infection.
- The bandage will be taken off 2-3 days after surgery.
- You should gently massage scrotal tissue and pull down the pump 3-4 times a day to prevent scarring and make it easier to work with the pump.
- Your doctor will show you how to inflate the implant around 4 – 6 weeks after surgery. You will need to inflate and deflate the device at least once a day, even when not being used for sex.

Activity

- Do not lift more than 10 pounds for 4 weeks after surgery.
- Avoid strenuous activity and contact sports for 4-6 weeks.
- You may resume sex 4-8 weeks after surgery.
- When you resume sex, you may have mild pain. It may help to use lubrication (i.e. K-Y Jelly®) or change positions.

When to Call the Doctor

- Not able to pass urine
- Blood in urine
- Increasing pain or swelling in your abdomen, penis or scrotum
- Temperature over 100.4° F by mouth, for 2 readings taken 4 hours apart
- Severe burning or pain when passing urine
- Redness of incision, or blood or pus-like drainage from the incision
- Open skin on the penis where the implant comes out
- Implant does not work as it should

Follow-Up Care

Your first follow-up visit will be made before you leave the hospital, and will likely be a 2-3 week exam for an incision check.
