Games and activities to play at home

Captain Starlight LOVES art! We hear that you have some amazing artworks to see and make here on Earth. It's time for an Arty Party!

DIY Art Gallery!

A lot of art gets displayed in an art gallery for everyone to enjoy.

Wouldn't it be fun to give your masterpieces a name and display them for your family to see? Maybe you could hang them in a window at the front of your house!

"The Scream"
Edvard Munch 1893

The Scream!

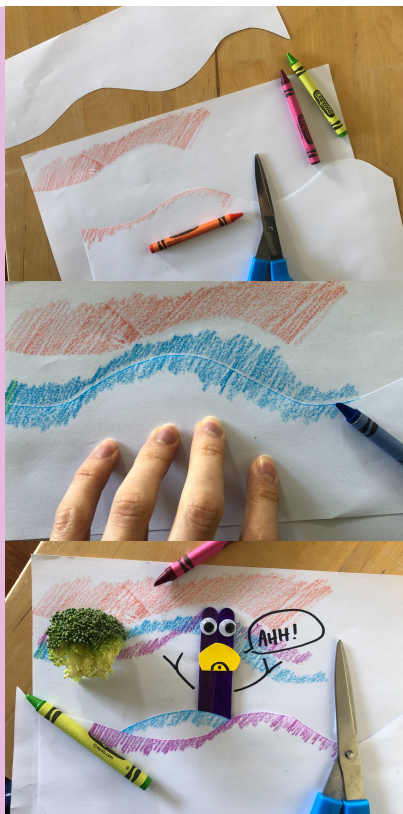

Now let's get creating! This activity is inspired by an artwork called 'The Scream' painted by Edvard Munch in 1893.

You Will Need:

- Colour Crayons
- Paper and cardboard
- Scissors
- A Picture of you
- A Picture of something gross

1. Cut out a wavy border stencil from a piece of cardboard (or paper if you don't have any cardboard!)
2. Take a crayon and use the stencil to create a colourful background with lots of wavy shapes.
3. Glue down or draw a picture of yourself looking scared in the foreground of your picture.
4. Draw or glue something silly in the background that might make you scream – like Captain Starlight did!

It's Dare Time!

There is nothing Captain Starlight loves more than a silly dare! Here is a fun dare you can do at home:

First, choose a piece of art and then try to imitate it in real life.

Get as creative as you want! What can you use in your room to copy what you see in an image? You can see me try it out on the next page. How did I do?

Match it!

Captain Starlight tried the Art Imitation dare but accidentally got the pictures mixed up! Can you help match each artwork below with its Captain Starlight pair? Once you have found a pair draw a line connecting the two stars!

"American Gothic"
Grant Wood, 1930

"The Persistence of Memory"
Salvador Dali, 1931

Nikolay Alexeyevich Nekrasov,
Grandfather Mazai & the Rabbits, 1870

Mona Who?!

This is a famous artwork called the Mona Lisa by Leonardo da Vinci. See if you can make it funny by dressing up the Mona Lisa in costume or disguises!
