Quite and understatement

meaning
of quite:

ıg	fairly	completely		Yes
e:	gradable adjectives	non-gradable adjectives
	tired, good, cold, angry,	to the extreme	Yes/No, True/False
	E.g. I'm quite tired . E.g. It's quite cold today.	exhausted, terrible, freezing,	right, correct	Quite/Quite so! = yes
	Exception: quite different → very different quite clear → very clear	E.g. I'm quite exhausted . E.g It's quite terrible .	E.g. You're quite correct . E.g. A: 'I'm sorry to be so difficult.' B: 'That's quite all right .	E.g. A: It's not something we want to talk about. B: Quite so .
	quite sure → completely sure E.g. You've made your position quite clear. E.g. It's quite different. E.g. Are you quite sure she won't mind?			E.g. A: We must finish it today. B: Quite.

meaning of quite:

completely	understate the quantity/quality
adverbs	quite + noun
clearly, enough, frankly, honestly	quite a/the/some something
E.g. I remember quite clearly that he left early yesterday.	→ unusual or a large amount
E.g. Quite frankly, I don't blame you.	E.g. This is quite a different problem .
E.g. Quite honestly , the thought of standing up and performing live	E.g. She hasn't been seen for quite some time.
terrified me.	E.g. It must be quite some car .
E.g. I've had quite enough of your tantrums.	E.g. He's quite the little gentleman, isn't he?
verbs:	quite a lot/bit (of something) → a large
agree, understand, enjoy, forget, imagine, overcome, overwhelm, spoil	amount/number
E.g. I quite agree .	E.g. They drank quite a lot of wine.
E.g. Don't worry. I quite understand your situation.
E.g. I quite enjoy walking in the park.	quite a bit/lot + comparatives → much
	E.g. We went to France when I was quite a bit fixed phrases	younger.
quite the contrary/opposite	E.g. The new TV set is quite a lot heavier than the old one.
not + quite + verb → not completely
E.g. I don't quite follow you.	quite a few (something) → a fairly large
E.g. I don't think he has ever quite forgiven her.	number
E.g. I've never quite understood why she's so successful.	E.g. I've been there quite a few times .
E.g. A: "Are you ready?" B: "No, not quite ."	