Spain makes some of the world's best wines, and we have an amazing selection for you this month.

Whether you like crisp, clean whites or big, bold reds, Spain makes just about every type of wine that will please even the most discerning palate. Spain is home to more vines than any other country on Earth, and has a national wine output exceeded only by France and Italy. (www.wine-searcher.com)

Grape vines have been grown on the Iberian Peninsula since at least 3000 B.C., although it was not until 1000 B.C. that winemaking began here in earnest – a skill brought by Phoenician traders from the eastern Mediterranean.

The most widely grown grape in Spain is Garnacha (Grenache), and when grown on old vines it is capable of producing wines of extraordinary depth and character. Tempranillo, often referred to as Spain's "noble grape", is native to Spain and is the main varietal used in Rioja and Ribera del Duero. Spain also makes wonderful white and rose wines perfect for spring sipping.

We always have a selection from our Monthly Featured Wines open at our Daily Tasting Bar so you can Taste Before You Buy®! Cheers!
