

Periods of Ineligibility for Covered Horses

During a period of Ineligibility, a Covered Horse may not participate in any kind of Timed and Reported Workout or Covered Horserace but will remain subject to testing at HIWU's discretion.

Prohibited Substance Present	Ineligibility Period
Banned Substances: Non-Approved Substances	Up to 14 Months
Banned Substances: Anabolic Agents, e.g., androgenic anabolic steroids, Zilpaterol, and Ractopamine ¹	14 Months
Banned Substances: Peptide Hormones, e.g., EPO and Growth Hormones	6 Months
Banned Substances: Beta-2 Agonists	14 Months
Banned Substances: Hormone and Metabolic Modulators, e.g., Thyroid Hormone	3 Months
Banned Substances: Diuretics and Masking Agents (Excluding Lasix, as specified in the Prohibited List)	0 Months
Banned Substances: Miscellaneous Substances	-
(1) Bisphosphonates	Life
(2) Other Miscellaneous Substances, e.g., Venoms, Regumate in male horses	0 Months
Controlled Medication Substances	0 Months The Covered Horse may be placed on the Vets' List, and if so, a subsequent Vets' List Workout must be scheduled. A Vets' List sample will be required.

Other Violations	Ineligibility Period
Evading collection of a sample from a Covered Horse; refusing or failing without compelling justification to submit a Covered Horse to sample collection; or refusing or failing to comply with all sample collection procedure requirements	Evasion: 18 Months Refusal or failure: 18 Months, unless it is established by the Responsible Person that fairness requires otherwise, in which case the period of Ineligibility may be reduced, depending on the specific circumstances of the case and considerations of horse welfare.

¹When certain substances, including Zilpaterol and Ractopamine, are detected by a laboratory, it is reported to HIWU as an Atypical Finding, which will trigger an investigation into the source and nature of the Covered Horse's exposure as per the ADMC rules' Atypical Findings Policy. The finding may be deemed negative if HIWU determines, after the investigation, that the evidence does not support pursuing the finding as an Adverse Analytical Finding.
