Top 10 Tips For First Time 5k Runners

If this is your first 5k and you're feeling a little apprehensive about what to expect during the next few months of training, here are our top 10 tips on how to approach this exciting challenge.

1. Slow & Steady - The slower and steadier you approach training, the less chance there is that you'll get injured and the more you'll enjoy the experience.
2. Do what suits YOU - The following training plan is just a guide. If you need to add more (or longer) walking breaks then that is totally fine. Add a minute or two to each walking break. Equally if you are adapting well to training, jog a bit further and / or reduce the walking breaks
3. It's YOUR Race - Resist the temptation to copy how other people train. Everyone is different, so stick to YOUR Training Plan and no one else's.
4. Run Happy - Training CAN be fun. Do whatever it takes to make your training enjoyable -so jog with a chum or listen to some great music / podcasts.
5. Work that Booty - Conditioning exercises for the core and glutes are really important to help prevent injury - so try and do them at least twice a week.
6. Keep up the Fluids - Drinking fluids frequently is really important to keep the body hydrated. If you're generally not very good at drinking water throughout the day, try and get into the habit of frequently sipping out of a bottle.
7. Vary your Training - Mixing your training up by running different routes and mixing up your pace are great ways to stop training getting stale and to help keep training interesting.
8. Remember to Rest - The importance of rest is massively under-estimated by many runners. If you and / or your legs are tired, then don't feel guilty taking an extra day off to recover.
9. Listen to your Body - Whether it's injury, illness or fatigue - always listen to what your body is telling you. If something isn't right, your body will let you know and it's really important you listen to it.
10. Challenge yourself - If you enjoy the training and what to challenge yourself- why not sign up for a 10k!?

Explanation of Training Session Terms:

- Rest - Unsurprisingly, rest days are just that. You can take the day off. However, if you feel in the mood and your body is feeling good, there is no reason why you can't head out for a long walk or even do some alternative exercise - such as swimming, cycling or even a pilates class.
- Brisk Walk - This pace is more than just a slow casual "Sunday afternoon" stroll. It is a walking pace "with purpose". We're not talking "Olympic walking" but a walk that has effort in and makes you a bit more out of breath than a normal paced walk.
(RPE Scale - 2-3)
- Jog - This is the pace the majority of your jogging intervals should be run at. You should just about be able to count to 10 in one breath whilst running at this pace and you should be able to hold a conversation with someone.

Initially a jogging pace may feel harder than this (it may be hard to easily count to 10 in one breath), but with consistent training, the same pace will get much easier and feel far more comfortable.

(RPE Scale - 4-5)

Remember - this plan is just a guide and offers a guide on suggested running distances and sessions.

Feel free to adapt it to suit you and your lifestyle.
