

RoHS & REACH Compliance Statement

RoHS Compliance: Electro Enterprises is a global distributor of electrical and electronic components that does not perform testing of products and relies solely on the manufacturer of the product for identification of RoHS compliance. Electro Enterprises makes no warranty, certification, or declaration of RoHS compliance for any of the products sold.

REACH Compliance: Electro Enterprises is not considered a manufacturer, importer, downstream end user, or registrant under Article 3 of REACH. As a result, Electro Enterprises has no responsibility to register any of the components or supplies we distribute. However, we do have the responsibility to communicate Substances of Very High Concern (SVHC) information throughout the supply chain when provided by the manufacturer, per article 33 of the directive. Suppliers are required, per the Electro Enterprises' Supplier Quality Requirements, to notify us before shipping any homogeneous material products that have greater than 0.1% SVHC. If this occurs, the information will be communicated to the customer for disposition.

Blanket Compliance: Not all products sold by Electro Enterprise will be compliant at one time. Due to this circumstance, Electro Enterprises cannot sign a standard blanket agreement on RoHS or REACH Compliance.
