Competition Format and Rules

Formato e regras da competição / Format et régles de la compétition

Olympic competition format

At the Rio 2016 Olympic Games both men and women compete in five cycling track events: team sprint, sprint, keirin, team pursuit and omnium.

Team sprint:

Nine men's and nine women's teams compete.

The competition consists of three phases: qualifying, first round and finals.

In the men's qualifying round, teams of three complete three laps and each cyclist must lead for one lap.

In the women's qualifying round, teams of two complete two laps and both riders must lead for one lap.

The qualifying round determines the eight best teams on the basis of their times. These times are then used to set the start lists for the first round (the fastest team competes against the eighth-fastest team, the second-fastest against the seventh-fastest, and so on).

The four winning teams from the first round qualify for the finals. The teams with the two best times compete for the gold medal, with the third and fourth fastest teams battling for the bronze. The beaten teams from the first round are ranked 5th-8th according to their times in that round.

In case of a tie (to the closest one-thousandth of a second), the team with the fastest time over the last lap or earlier lap(s) (if needed) will be declared the winner.

Sprint:

A total of 27 men and 27 women will compete in the men's and women's sprint competitions.

The competition consists of 10 phases: qualifying, 1/16 finals, 1/16 finals repechages, 1/8 finals, 1/8 finals repechages, quarterfinals, semifinals, race for places 9-12, race for places 5-8, and finals.

During the qualifying phase all riders complete a 200m flying start – a time trial after two-and-a-half build-up laps – to determine the top 18 to qualify and the seeding order for the 1/16 finals, which is a head-to-head competition.

The nine winners of the 1/16 finals advance to the 1/8 finals, the nine losers go to repechages. The 1/16 finals repechages consist of three heats, featuring three riders in each. The three winners progress to the 1/8 finals.

The six winners of the 1/8 finals advance to the quarterfinals, the six losers go to repechages. The two winners of the repechages advance to the quarterfinals, the losers ride for places 9-12.

In the quarterfinals, semifinals and finals, cyclists compete against each other over two heats, with a third deciding heat held if needed. The winners of the quarterfinals go into the semifinals, the losers compete for places 5-8. The winners of the semifinals contest the gold medal and the losers compete for the bronze medal.

In the case of a tie (to the closest one-thousandth of a second) in the 200m flying start time trial, the riders concerned will be classified according to the best time in the last 100m. In the case that the last 100m time cannot be recorded or if the riders are still tied, the riders concerned will be classified by drawing lots.

If there is a tie in the decider of any race, additional decider(s) will be run until the tie is resolved.

Keirin:

A total of 27 men and 27 women will compete in the men's and women's keirin.

The competition consists of four phases: first round, first round repechages, second round and finals.

Riders run a two-and-a-half lap sprint after completing five-and-a-half laps in a bunch behind a motorcycle-mounted pacer, which is used to ensure the athletes reach a specific speed. The motorcycle-mounted pacer starts at 30 km per hour for men and 25 km per hour for women. The speed is increased to 50 km per hour for men and 45 km per hour for women.

The 27 riders are split in to four heats of six or seven riders. A total of 12 riders qualify for the second round, and six for the final.

Riders who do not advance to the final from the second round compete for places 7-12.

If ties for the last qualifying spot cannot be resolved by a photo-finish, all the riders involved will qualify for the next round (or share the rank if it is in the final round).

Team pursuit:

Nine men's and nine women's teams, both made up of four riders, compete in the team pursuit. The race is over 4000m for men and women.

The competition consists of three phases: qualifying, first round and finals.

The eight teams with the fastest times in the qualifying round will race in the first round as follows:

- 6th fastest versus 7th fastest
- 5th fastest versus 8th fastest
- 2nd fastest versus 3rd fastest
- Fastest versus 4th fastest

All the teams contesting the first round advance to the finals.

The winners of the 2nd fastest versus 3rd fastest and fastest versus 4th fastest races will compete for the gold medal.

The remaining six teams will be ranked by the times they record in the first round and will be paired as follows:

- The two fastest of these six remaining teams will contest the bronze medal
- The next two fastest teams compete for 5th and 6th places
- The last two teams contest 7th and 8th places

In case of a tie (to the closest one-thousandth of a second), the team with the fastest time over the last lap (or earlier lap(s) if the time for the last lap is the same), will be declared the winner.

Omnium:

A total of 18 men and 18 women compete in the omnium.

The omnium is a combined event in which athletes compete in six races over two days in the following order: scratch race, individual pursuit, elimination race, 500m time trial (for women)/1km time trial (for men), flying lap, and points race.

For the first five races, the winner of each race scores 40 points, the second 38, and so on. For the sixth race (the points race), all points scored in sprints or by taking laps are considered. The overall winner of the omnium is the rider with the most cumulative points.

The scratch race is a bunch race run over 15km for men and 10km for women. Tied riders share the same rank.

The individual pursuit is a 4000m race for men and a 3000m race for women. Riders will be paired in reverse order based upon their ranking after the scratch race. The winner is the rider with the fastest time. In case of a tie (to the closest one-thousandth of a second), the rider with the fastest time over the last lap (or earlier lap(s) if the time for the last lap is the same), will be declared the winner.

The elimination race is a bunch race during which the last rider to cross the line at each intermediate sprint (every two laps) is eliminated.

The time trial is a 1km race for men and a 500m race for women. Riders are paired in reverse order based upon their ranking after the elimination race. The rider with the fastest time is declared the winner. Riders with the same time share the same rank.

The flying lap is a timed 250m sprint, following two-and-a-half build-up laps.

In the points race men cover 40km and women cover 25km. The final placing is determined according to accumulated points won by riders as follows:

1. Sprints occur every 10 laps with points awarded as follows: five points for first, three for second, two for third and one point for fourth.
2. Riders can also pick up 20 points by gaining a lap on the main field.

Note: A rider will have 20 points deducted if he/she loses a lap on the main field.

If two or more riders are equal on points, they will be separated according to their finishing positions in the final sprint. If the tie still cannot be resolved the rank will be shared.

UCI (Union Cycliste Internationale) rules state that a rider may be allowed to continue the competition even if he/she does not finish one of the races.

Differences between the UCI world championships and the Olympic Games

There are 19 events (10 for men and nine for women) at the world championships, while there are 10 events (five for men and five for women) at the Olympic Games.

As a result of the different NOC quotas in place for the UCI world championships and the Olympic Games, the number of rounds within each event may also vary between the two competitions.

Changes since the London 2012 Olympic Games

Team pursuit: The format for the women’s team pursuit is now the same as for the men's (four team members, racing over 4000m).

Omnium: The order of the events has been changed and the scoring system has been modified.

Sport rules and procedures

The maximum number of riders who may compete in the cycling track competition at the Olympic Games is 189, with a maximum of 99 men and 90 women.

Tiebreak rules

See competition format above.

Penalties/disqualification rules

A rider may be disqualified, relegated (ranked to the last position in a phase) or fined for the following:

- Pushing or interfering (jersey pulling) with another rider, by hand or by other means.
- Using a bicycle that does not conform to the regulations.
- Removing the obligatory helmet during the race.
- Deviating from a selected lane in a sprint and thereby endangering other riders.
- Recording a positive doping test will lead to disqualification.
- Failing gender verification tests will lead to a disqualification (women only).
- Receiving two warnings within the same event will lead to disqualification (a relegation automatically carries a warning).

Note: Relegation changes the rank of a rider or team, after which the rider or team can continue to compete (not applicable in pursuits and time trials).

Protests/appeals

Decisions made by the Commissaries' Panel are considered final. There are no protests.

Regulations on equipment and rider position

In order to give equal opportunities to all NOCs, the UCI has issued the following restrictions:

- A bicycle shall not measure more than 185cm in length and 50cm in width.
- The wheels of the bicycle may vary in diameter between 70cm maximum and 55cm minimum. The wheels must be of equal diameter.
- The structure of the bicycle connecting the saddle, pedals and front fork must be triangular.
- The bicycles must have fixed gears.
- Bicycles should weigh at least 6.8 kg.

There are also regulations regarding the height of the peak of the saddle for the different events.
