Can Nomo Bank change the profit rate?

Yes, the profit rates are variable, and we will notify you if we reduce the expected profit rate applicable to the account and give you 30 calendar days' notice as described in the terms. You may close your account and have your money returned to you, otherwise we will keep your account open, applying the new lower expected profit rate.

If the expected profit rate has increased, we will apply it to your account immediately.
