

TYLEA RICHARD

2007 Reynolds Fellow

Gallatin School of Individualized Study

Master of Arts, May 2009

Socially Responsible Apparel Production

Tylea Richard is currently working as Operations and Production Coordinator at Holstee, an eco-design company producing clothing, accessories, and other lifestyle goods. She will be taking a leave of absence from the company in 2013 to pursue a Fulbright research grant on the quality of life for garment workers in the Dominican Republic.

In 2009, Tylea received a Master of Arts from the Gallatin School of Individualized Study. Her program of study concentrated on business, manufacturing and labor studies. She received a BA in Public and Community Service Studies from Providence College in 2004.