

students r-build

Each year, Students Rebuild partners with museums, artists, and young people to create cumulative pieces and exhibits, featuring student art submitted to the Bezos Family Foundation.

Collaborations include:

- International artists such as Brazilian photographer Vik Muniz, L.A. street artist Teachr, African designer Anita Quansah, and humanitarian artist Naomi Natale.
- Architecture for Humanity and TEDEd have displayed Students Rebuild art in youth centers in Sendai, Japan, following the 2011 tsunami, and at the TED 2018 conference in Vancouver, B.C.
- Elementary school students have helped design and curate one-of-a-kind art exhibits at the Figge Art Museum and the Museum of Tolerance.

Through the Ocean Challenge, young people globally will be creating reef and ocean animals out of paper and recycled materials. For World Ocean's Day, June 8th, 2019 – we hope to partner with a mission aligned museum and artist to display this work as an art reef diorama. Our goal is to celebrate the Challenge, while continuing to raise awareness for ocean health and conservation.

Our artists and collaborators to date...

Teachr

Anita Quansah

Montlake Elementary

Naomi Natale

Vik Muniz

Art and issues that matter... a visual of past projects.

*Cranes for Japan – 2011 tsunami
Benefit poster
– Vik Muniz*

*One Million Bones, National Mall
Visual Protest and community arts
– Naomi Natale*

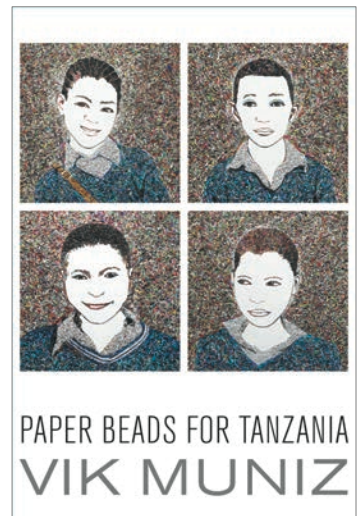

*Youth Uplift, Los Angeles
Benefit poster and youth event
– Teachr*

*Clean Water for Tanzania
Bead gown and collar
– Anita Quansah*

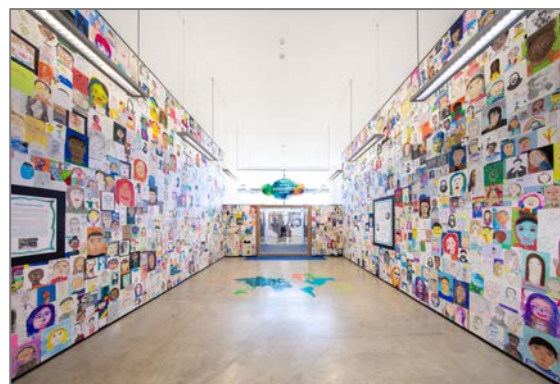

*Healing Classrooms, Museum of Tolerance
Pinwheels for Syrian refugee children
– Montlake Elementary*

*Clean Water for Tanzania
Benefit poster
– Vik Muniz*

*Facing Difference, TED 2018
Self-portraits for youth peace building
– TEDEd*

*Facing Difference, Figge Art Museum
Self-portraits for youth peace building
– Creative Arts Academy*