

Supplier facts

Bang & Olufsen collaborates with skilled and innovative suppliers across the world, sourcing everything from electronic components and wood to leather and recycled plastic from trusted global partners.

Responsible supply chain relationships are becoming an increasingly important aspect as Bang & Olufsen's business model is changing towards becoming more of a partner-based approach. Therefore, the company continues to engage constructively with its suppliers to drive continuous improvements and based on the assumption that suppliers share Bang & Olufsen's commitments to international principles for human rights, labour rights, the environment and anti-corruption.

As of 1 June 2021, the company is working with a total of 85 suppliers in 14 different countries or regions. The numbers below reflect the country of the supplier's production, not necessarily the headquarter of the supplier.
