Beamery

Abakar Saidov
Executive Chairman

Abakar Saidov is the Executive Chairman and Co-Founder of Beamery, an AI-powered platform that helps enterprises make smarter talent decisions by putting skills intelligence at the core of their people strategy. As Executive Chairman, Abakar represents Beamery in the external market—engaging with global enterprise leaders, strategic partners, and industry thought leaders to shape the future of skills, work, and workforce transformation.

Since co-founding Beamery, Abakar has been instrumental in building the company from the ground up into a global enterprise partner trusted by Fortune 500 and Global 2000 organizations. He led Beamery through rapid growth, international expansion, and multiple funding rounds from top-tier investors, cementing the company's leadership in the HR technology and AI space.

Now, as Executive Chairman, Abakar continues to play a critical role in advancing Beamery's mission to unlock the potential of the global workforce—advising the executive team and board, championing customer relationships, and elevating Beamery's impact in the evolving world of work.

A passionate advocate for ethical AI and equitable opportunity in the workplace, Abakar frequently speaks on the intersection of technology, policy, and workforce transformation.

RECENT MEDIA COVERAGE

Forbes: How to address skills gaps in 2025

Forbes: Three things leaders should prioritize in a changing talent landscape

City AM: Why Abakar Saidov is backing the future of UK tech

World Economic Forum: Skills-first approach: How cutting-edge skills data can help build an adaptable, resilient workforce

AREAS OF EXPERTISE

- Workforce transformation and the future of work

- Skills-first hiring and skills-based talent management

- AI as "augmenting human talent" not replacing it.

- Finding product-market fit; building a multi-product portfolio in a changing market.

- Weathering storms – planning for uncertainty while maintaining efficiency. Creating a culture of focus, efficiency and profitability.

ABOUT BEAMERY

Beamery is an AI-powered platform that helps enterprise organizations make smarter talent decisions, by putting skills intelligence at the core of their people strategy. Our technology for HR teams empowers businesses to transform their workforce, unlock the potential of their people, and hire top talent faster. Companies use Beamery to connect talent plans to business goals, reduce risk, and navigate change with confidence. We are proud to be building a more inclusive, skills-based economy, where everyone has equal access to work opportunities.

For more information, visit beamery.com or email press@beamery.com.