Who is EarnIn?

EarnIn is a United States financial technology company that offers Community Members in the United States early access to their wages as they earn them, through the EarnIn Site. EarnIn is not a bank. However, EarnIn provides access to some Bank Products in partnership with our Bank Partners. When You sign up for a Bank Product, EarnIn collects and uses Your information on behalf of Our Bank Partners to provide You with the Bank Services. Your information is shared with the Bank Partner and is subject to Our Bank Partner's privacy notice. While EarnIn is not responsible for Our Bank Partners' privacy practices, We may publish their notices and process data requests as their service provider. We encourage You to review their privacy notice before signing up for a Bank Product click [here to see Evolve's Privacy Notice]

Does EarnIn Comply with Strict Privacy Regulations (Like Banks Do)?

Absolutely! Even though EarnIn is not a bank, EarnIn is subject to the same federal, state, and foreign privacy laws (as applicable) that banks located in the United States comply with. For instance, EarnIn complies with a federal privacy law called the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act ("GLBA"). The GLBA protects the Personal Information that financial institutions collect about their customers for the purpose of providing financial services (for personal or household use). For more information, please see our Short Privacy Notice. EarnIn also complies with state privacy laws, like the California Consumer Privacy Act (“CCPA”) as amended by the Consumer Privacy Rights Act (“CPRA”), and the Oregon Consumer Data Privacy Act (OCDPA). The CCPA/CPRA and the OCDPA protect the Personal Information companies (including financial institutions) collect about residents of California and Oregon respectively for reasons other than providing financial services (such as marketing purposes). If You are a California or Oregon resident, Your CCPA rights are listed at the end of this Privacy Policy. Other states (like Colorado, Utah, Virginia, Connecticut, Indiana, Iowa, Montana, Tennessee, and Texas) have also adopted their own privacy laws, but those privacy laws explicitly exclude financial institutions from their scope of applicability.
