

Indiana

Estimates of the scale and scope of child sexual abuse and exploitation (CSAE) in the United States (U.S.) are deeply concerning. According to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), at least one-in-four girls and one-in-20 boys will experience sexual abuse during childhood.<sup>1</sup> Beyond the human toll, the financial impacts of CSAE are also substantial: the total economic burden of child sexual abuse in the U.S. was estimated to exceed $9 billion in 2015, including costs related to health care, child welfare services and lost productivity.<sup>2</sup>

Yet progress is possible. Evidence-based interventions can prevent sexual violence and reduce harm to survivors and their families when it does occur.<sup>3,4,5</sup> The United States Out of the Shadows Index (the index)—developed by Economist Impact with support from World Childhood Foundation USA—was created to spotlight state action, and inaction, to tackle CSAE. Drawing on more than 170 metrics, the index assesses how effectively states are adopting essential prevention and response measures and where urgent improvements are still needed.

Score

46.5/100

Rank

35/51

Demographics

Population (m)	6.8
Median household income ($)	69,477
Poverty rate (% below poverty level)	12.3
Educational attainment, bachelor's degree or higher (%)	29.2
Investment in education per pupil ($)	12,322

Overview

Indiana has taken key steps to combat child sexual abuse, but further efforts are needed to strengthen prevention capacity statewide and ensure all survivors have access to trauma-informed justice mechanisms.

State spotlights

- Indiana was among the first states to adopt a multidisciplinary model for responding to severe child abuse, including sexual abuse, with the establishment of its first Children's Advocacy Centers (CACs)<sup>6</sup> in 1987. Today, CACs serve all 92 counties, ensuring that child victims have access to specialized services—including forensic interviews—within a 45-minute drive of any location.
- Survivors in Indiana have the right to speak with a victim advocate during any hospital visit (for the purpose of receiving a sexual assault examination) and during the course of the investigation.<sup>7</sup>

Priority areas for future focus

Strengthen the legal framework protecting children from sexual violence by:

- Raising the minimum legal age of marriage to 18 without exceptions;
- Eliminating marital exceptions or defenses to age-based sex offense laws;
- Adopting a clear statutory definition of sexual consent; and
- Ensuring that anti-grooming legislation explicitly criminalizes engaging in a pattern of behavior intended to facilitate or lead to the sexual abuse of a child.

Boost prevention capacity through

- the development of a statewide CSAE prevention plan or strategy, encompassing both in-person and online abuse and exploitation. Actions should include:
- Requiring school-based online safety education for students that includes instruction on identifying, avoiding and reporting online sexual harms, including the risks of producing and sharing explicit self-generated content; and
  - Mandating regular training on child sexual abuse for school personnel and employees of other youth-serving organizations to help them recognize and respond to abuse.<sup>8</sup>

Ensure children have access to services of the highest standards by establishing a dedicated state funding stream to ensure CACs are consistently and adequately resourced to meet service standards and demand.

Support survivors' access to justice by:

- Eliminating both the criminal statute of limitations and the civil statute of limitations for all CSAE crimes;
- Adopting measures to prevent the retraumatization of victims during legal proceedings, applicable to all children up to the age of 18;<sup>9</sup> and
- Enacting legislation to address the backlog of untested sexual assault evidence kits (ie, rape kits) and to guarantee survivors the right to access key information about their kits, including location, testing status and results.

SUPPORTED BY

WORLD CHILDHOOD FOUNDATION
FOUNDED BY H.M. QUEEN SILVIA OF SWEDEN

The United States Out of the Shadows Index: Indiana

Issue spotlights

○ No    ◐ Partially    ● Yes

Legal protections & safeguards		Provision of support services
Statutory definition of sexual consent*	○	Survivors' right to know about the status of their rape kit †	○
Minimum legal age for marriage set at 18 without exception	○	Survivors' right to an advocate during medical examinations †	●
No marital exception or defense permitted under statutory rape laws	○	Minors' authority to consent to medical care following sexual violence †	○
Anti-grooming legislation describes a pattern of behavior to facilitate child sexual abuse ‡	○	Statute designating CACs as the preferred response to allegations of CSA †	○
Online grooming of a child for sexual abuse is criminalized	●	State funding for CACs	○
Computer- and/or AI-generated child sexual abuse material criminalized	●	Extended period for CSA survivors to apply for Crime Victim Compensation †,§	◐
Building prevention capacity		Justice system capacity & response
Statewide child sexual abuse prevention plan	○	Alternatives to police report to access Crime Victim Compensation †,§	◐
Sex education or HIV/STI instruction required to cover consent (if provided) §§	○	Mandated training for law enforcement: sexual assault †	●
Mandated child sexual abuse (CSA) prevention and awareness education (students) †	●	Mandated training for law enforcement: trauma-informed practice †	●
Mandated education on online CSA and/or the risks of sharing explicit self-generated content (students) †	○	Mandated training for prosecutors: sexual assault †	○
Mandated training on recognizing and responding to CSA (school employees) †	○	Mandated training for prosecutors: trauma-informed practice †	○
Mandated training on recognizing and responding to CSA (youth organization employees) †	○	Criminal statute of limitations: full elimination for all CSA crimes †	○
Required screening of school employees to prevent educator sexual misconduct ¶	●	Civil statute of limitations: full elimination for all CSA claims against all defendants †	○
Educator code of conduct with clear teacher/student boundaries outlined	○	Permanently opened revival window for all claims against all types of perpetrators †	○
		Minors up to age 18 permitted to testify via alternative means (e.g., CCTV) in criminal proceedings involving CSA †	○

The findings reflect the most recent available data at the time the research was conducted. Research for the pilot states was completed in 2022/23, for the second iteration states in 2023/24, and for the remaining states and the District of Columbia in 2024/25. For more details, see the methodology report.

The Issue Spotlights figure features a limited sample of the data included in the index. For the full set of indicators and a detailed explanation of the scoring, sources and weightings, please see the project's methodology report and interactive model.

---

Endnotes

1. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, “About Child Sexual Abuse,” accessed July 24, 2025, <https://www.cdc.gov/child-abuse-neglect/about/about-child-sexual-abuse.html>
2. Elizabeth J. Letourneau et al., “The Economic Burden of Child Sexual Abuse in the United States,” Child Abuse & Neglect 79 (May 2018): 413–22, <https://doi.org/10.1016/j.chiabu.2018.02.020>
3. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Preventing Child Abuse and Neglect: A Technical Package for Policy, Norm, and Programmatic Activities. Atlanta, GA: National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 2016. https://www.cdc.gov/violenceprevention/pdf/CAN-Prevention-Resource\_508.pdf.
4. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. Preventing Sexual Violence: A Technical Package of Policies, Programs, and Practices. Atlanta, GA: National Center for Injury Prevention and Control, Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, 2016. https://www.cdc.gov/violenceprevention/pdf/SV-Prevention-Resource\_508.pdf.
5. Together for Girls. What Works to Prevent Sexual Violence Against Children: Evidence Review. Together for Girls, 2021. <https://www.togetherforgirls.org/en/resources/what-works-to-prevent-sexual-violence-against-children-evidence-review>.
6. Children’s Advocacy Centers (CACs) are organizations located throughout the US that help facilitate a multidisciplinary and child-centered response to CSAE. These centers bring together several of the key actors—law enforcement, child protective services investigators, medical and mental health professionals, forensic interviewers, victim advocates, and more—under one roof, helping to minimize the number of times a child has to be interviewed and offering critical therapeutic and other support to children and their families.
7. IN Code Ann. § 35-40.5-3-1
8. Indiana requires the Department of Education to identify or develop a model policy for responding to child abuse and child sexual abuse, which may include methods for teacher education and outreach. However, this training is not currently mandatory for school personnel or individuals working in youth-serving organizations outside of schools (IN Code Ann. § 20-19-3-11).
9. Testimonial aids are designed to protect children who have experienced sexual abuse from further trauma during judicial proceedings. These measures may include allowing child survivors to provide testimony through alternative means—such as closed-circuit television or prerecorded statements—instead of live, in-court testimony. Additionally, many jurisdictions recognize a child sexual abuse-specific hearsay exception, which permits the admission of non-testimonial out-of-court statements, provided the statements meet established standards of reliability and admissibility under applicable evidentiary rules.

---

Symbols

- † This reflects whether the state has a statute explicitly mandating this requirement.
- ‡ This data, which is integrated into the index, was sourced from CHILD USA.
- * This reflects whether the state has established a clear statutory definition of “sexual consent” that includes reference to consent being “freely” or “voluntarily” given.
- ** This reflects whether the state has established a statutory minimum legal age for marriage of 18, without exceptions such as parental consent, judicial approval, or pregnancy-related allowances.
- § This reflects whether the state has an anti-grooming law that explicitly defines or describes grooming (or a similar term) as a pattern of behaviors intended to build trust with a child to facilitate sexual abuse. Laws that solely address isolated acts such as luring or enticing a minor—without recognizing the broader behavioral pattern—were not considered. To meet the criterion, laws must explicitly cover in-person grooming, not just online interactions.
- §§ This reflects whether sex education is required by law or through state standards that have the force of law. This data, which is integrated into the index, was sourced from SIECUS.
- ¶ This data, which is integrated into the index, was sourced from Enough Abuse and is current as of October 2024.
- # “No” refers to states whose statutes establishing eligibility criteria for Crime Victim Compensation impose a strict deadline to apply, based solely on the date of the crime or its report to law enforcement, with no explicit exceptions for children or victims of sexual abuse. “Partially” applies to states with vague or discretionary exceptions (e.g., “good cause”) or that allow minor victims a fixed time beyond age 18 to apply (e.g., until 21 or 25). “Fully” applies to states that impose no time limit on applications from victims who were minors at the time of the crime and/or were victims of sexual abuse.
- ## “No” refers to states whose statutes establishing eligibility criteria for Crime Victim Compensation require victims to report the crime to law enforcement, with no exceptions for children or victims of sexual assault. “Partially” applies to states that allow some exemptions to the law enforcement reporting requirement for minors or victims of sexual assault, but those exemptions are time-bound, narrow, or vaguely defined (e.g., based on “good cause” without clear standards). “Fully” applies to states that provide various, clearly defined alternatives to reporting to law enforcement — or impose no reporting requirement at all — for minors or victims of sexual assault.

For further information, please contact:
Laura Avery lauraavery@economist.com

Economist Impact bears sole responsibility for the content of this report. The findings and views expressed in the report do not necessarily reflect the views of the sponsors, the experts, or others who kindly gave their time to advise us.