

START DEVELOPING YOUR EMPLOYABILITY SKILLS DURING YOUR STUDY.

As well as a relevant academic qualification, there are skills you can develop to improve your chances of success in the workplace.

Most employers in New Zealand (and overseas) look for these skills, so it's important to develop them and demonstrate that you have them to any potential employer.

Writing and speaking clearly

Leadership

Adaptability

Perserverance

Planning and organisation

Proactivity

Teamwork

Collaboration

Problem-solving

Creativity and open-mindedness

Volunteer

Join professional bodies

Get a part-time job

Join clubs and societies

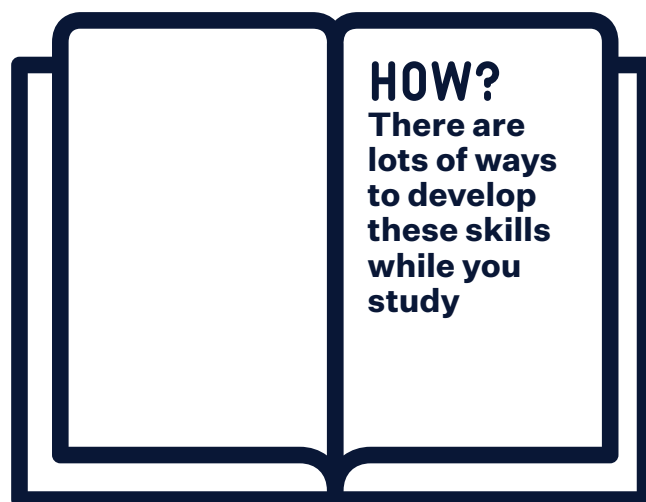

Find a mentor

Go to networking events

Join community and interest groups

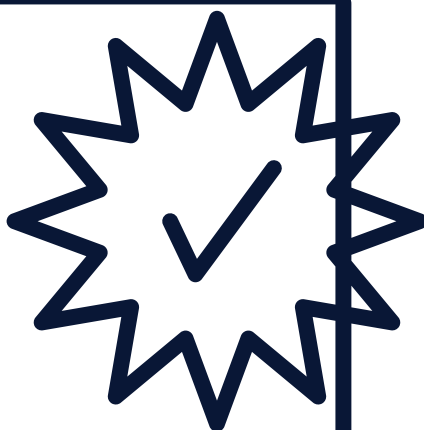

Do an internship

Do study-related work experience

WHERE?

It's important to tell people about your skills

On your CV

In cover letters

On social media, like blogs

On LinkedIn

In interviews