FAQs

Q: What are collagen peptides?

A: Collagen peptides are small protein fragments produced by breaking down collagen into easily absorbed forms. They provide amino acids that support skin, joints, bones, and other connective tissues.

Q: Why was marine (fish) collagen used for this product?

A: Marine collagen is a sustainable source, using parts of fish that might otherwise be discarded. It is a high-quality, bioavailable option for those seeking a non-bovine or non-porcine alternative.
