INGREDIENT HIGHLIGHTS

PANTHENOL

Panthenol is an emollient, moisturizer, and humectant (attracts and retains moisture from the air), which helps keep the layers of the skin looking soft and supple.

BETA-CAROTENE

Considered a provitamin because it converts to an active form of vitamin A (retinol), beta-carotene is an essential nutrient that supports skin beauty and health by supporting tissue and skin renewal.

EVENING PRIMROSE OIL

The oil from this wildflower helps to calm and soothe the skin. This property, together with the linoleic acid, helps support the skin's protective moisture barrier and promote soft, smooth, and more youthful-looking skin.

SEA BUCKTHORN OIL

Rich in omega fatty acids and antioxidants, sea buckthorn can be helpful for skin. It's also high in oleic acid, which makes it great for dry, irritated, or prematurely aging skin.

FAQs

Q: Why is the eye area particularly prone to wrinkles?

A: The signs of aging show up in the delicate eye area first. This is because the eye contour has the thinnest and most fragile skin on the entire face. Lacking in sebaceous glands, collagen, and elastin fibers, it's also under the strain of 22 muscles in perpetual motion and 10,000 blinks per day. It's no wonder why the eye contour is the first area to show signs of aging.
