INGREDIENT HIGHLIGHTS

WHITE WILLOW BARK (SALIX ALBA)

Willow bark may be the oldest herb known to treat pain. The inner bark of the white willow tree contains salicin, which turns into salicylic acid in the body. The compound in aspirin, acetylsalicylic acid, is derived from salicylic acid.

FAQs

Q: How does Sunrider's White Willow Bark formula work?

A: The bark of white willow contains salicin, a chemical similar to aspirin. In combination with the herb's powerful anti-inflammatory plant compounds (flavonoids and polyphenols), salicin is thought to be responsible for the pain-relieving and anti-inflammatory effects of the herb. Sunrider® White Willow Bark is highly concentrated and specially formulated to maximize its efficacy and bioavailability.

Q: How is white willow bark different from aspirin?

A: In contrast to aspirin, willow bark doesn't damage the gastrointestinal mucosa and doesn't affect blood thinning to the same degree as aspirin. Unlike aspirin, white willow bark contains plant chemicals called polyphenols and flavonoids that have antioxidant, fever-reducing, and immune-boosting properties. Studies indicate the effects of white willow take longer than aspirin to kick in, but they tend to last longer and to cause fewer adverse reactions.
