MyBucks appoints Christopher Hall to its Board of Directors

- Former Latham & Watkins partner to join the MyBucks Board as a Non-Executive Director

Luxembourg, 14 July 2017 - Luxembourg-based and Frankfurt-listed FinTech enterprise MyBucks (<http://MyBucks.com>) has announced the appointment of Christopher Hall as a Non-Executive Director on its Board. Mr. Hall's more than 30-year career has spanned the sectors of telecommunication, technology, finance and law, operating in North America, South America, Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

"We are very happy to welcome Mr. Hall on board," said Dave van Niekerk, CEO, MyBucks. "Christopher brings to us a wealth of expertise, ranging from mergers and acquisitions to joint-venture development, coupled with senior board experience at elite technology companies. It's clear that this addition strengthens our continued strategic growth, particularly shoring up credit risk and legal skills on a Board level."

Mr. Hall brings invaluable talent, with wide-ranging experience serving on the executive boards of FinTech, EdTech and HRTech companies. He is a solicitor of the Senior Courts of England and Wales and is a member of the New York Bar. Earlier this year, he stepped down from his role as Senior Finance Partner at global law firm Latham & Watkins.

As MyBucks continues to leverage its success off massive demand for pioneering credit solutions, Hall's strong legal background along with his multi-continent executive experience and regulatory acumen, including overseeing capital market issuances, acquisitions and joint ventures in the data communications industry, will add heavyweight propulsion behind the FinTech company's trajectory, fortifying its business resilience, growth strategy and spirit for continued innovation.
