STATEMENT CALIFORNIA PROPOSITION 65

California Proposition 65 (Safe Drinking Water and Toxic Enforcement Act of 1986) is meant to protect California's drinking water sources from contamination with substances known to cause cancer or reproductive harm. For this purpose, California Proposition 65 requires that all citizens of California are informed by companies about the exposure to the controlled substances. FRABA does not manufacture any substances. As a company in the automation industry, FRABA produces and sells sensors for factory automation, mobile machines and other measuring applications.

These products and solutions are being integrated into industrial machines and systems. People only get in contact with FRABA products during the initial installation and possible maintenance work. For this reason, the products fall under the category of 'infrequently handled products' and are therefore not within the scope of California Proposition 65. According to our current level of knowledge, no person is harmed by the intended use of FRABA products and there is no exposure to substances that cause cancer or reproductive harm.
