

Use of Testimonials Disclaimers

Last Updated: June 11, 2024

Origin has entered into agreements with certain non-client spokespersons, who are not actual clients of Origin. Any such spokesperson's statements do not reflect the experiences or opinions of any real clients. Compensation was provided for these endorsements, which may create a conflict of interest. Please consider this information carefully when evaluating the services of Origin.

Origin has also received testimonials from actual clients and users of Origin, which it presents in advertisements from time to time. These clients have not been compensated for their testimonials. The experiences and opinions expressed are their own and may not be representative of the experiences of all clients. Individual results may vary. While no compensation was provided, a conflict of interest may still exist.