

Privacy notice for user and visitors of Funda

Who we are

Funda is officially registered with the Chamber of Commerce as Funda Real Estate B.V., under number 34242436. Our office is located at 167 Piet Heinkade in Amsterdam. Throughout this document we use our shortened and better-known name: Funda.

Funda is there to help you as a consumer, our user, to get closer to your dream home or to support you, as a real estate professional, in your work. Your privacy is of the utmost importance to us. Of course, we process your personal data, that is simply part of our work. For example, you expect us to pass your viewing request on to a real estate agent or to email you about new offers. We handle your details very carefully throughout our entire work process. In this privacy notice we would like to explain - in the clearest language possible - what we do, why and what that means for you.

First of all, we promise you that:

- we are transparent about the way in which and the purposes for which we process your personal data
- we take appropriate measures to protect your personal data
- you have a high degree of control over your personal data
- we are accessible and available if you want to communicate with us about your privacy with Funda

In this document we use a number of terms that we would like to clarify in advance:

- Funda platform: the whole of funda.nl, the apps, and fundainbusiness.nl
- Object: a house or business property that is or has been for sale or for rent on the Funda platform

If you feel there is anything missing from this privacy notice, please let us know by sending an email to privacy@funda.nl!

Who is this privacy notice for?

This Privacy notice applies to consumers who use our services. At Funda we treat our users and their personal data with care. We want to enable you as a user to access, modify and use your personal data in the way that suits you best, always keeping our privacy promises. Would you like to know more about privacy at Funda? Below we have listed everything for you.

This notice applies to all personal data we obtain about you as a user when you:

- use the Funda platform, regardless of whether you are a potential buyer, tenant, seller, landlord or otherwise visiting Funda;
- visit our office during an event or for any other reason; and
- interact with Funda in any other way (as our partner, service provider).

If you use the Funda platform as an agent, the privacy notice for brokers applies.

What personal data does Funda process?

Funda processes the following data from you, that may be personal data insofar they can be traced back to you:

A.) Account information, information with which you create and use an account, such as your name and surname, e-mail address and password and further account information with which you optionally enrich your account, such as your year of birth, telephone number, postal code and information about your living situation, the type of house you're searching for and information you use to make your search easier, such as the Objects you save and the comments you save with an Object. With this single account you are able to log in to both Funda and Funda in business and manage your data.

B.) Information you supply us with so we can provide you with a product or service, such as the content of contact requests and other service requests that we forward to the agent at your request, a review of your agent that you leave behind on the Funda platform or the information that is necessary to provide you with a paid product or service, such as a presentation package or promotional product. In such cases, we process your email address, name and order details. Your payment details are processed within the environment of our payment service provider, which, depending on the payment method you choose, processes information such as bank account or credit card details. This enables your payment to be processed. Our payment service provider also processes this information for fraud prevention and the handling of chargebacks. When using the app, we also collect your GPS data to enable 'map search' and to enable you to set a current location in a search.

C.) Automatically generated data, such as IP addresses, device ID and browser data .

D.) Information about the way you use the Funda platform, such as which services you use, which Objects you find interesting, and other platform-interactions. This information is used to track statistics and to build a profile on the basis of which we can personalise and optimise the Funda platform and our services (for more information see below 'What about profiling?').

E.) Data obtained from partners, such as segmentation data based on geographical and demographic characteristics of neighbourhoods, properties, and households, or data that provide insights into your relationship with an advertiser, for example, whether you have subscribed to a specific service. We use this information to personalize and optimize the Funda platform and our services. For more details, see below under 'What about profiling?'.

F.) Feedback data, that we use to improve our services, such as data that you fill in on feedback forms relating to our platform and our services or data that you provide via the 'report an error' option.

G.) Information on your contact with us, such as data in e-mails you send to Funda, messages you send to us via social media and voice recordings when you contact us by telephone.

H.) Object data, such as photos, address data, floor plans, square metre (m²), year of construction and other characteristics of an Object.

I.) Identification details, such as a copy of your proof of identity (without citizen service number and passport photo) in the event of exercising your rights as a data subject.

J.) CCTV recordings, because you may be recorded when you visit our office.

K.) General contact information, such as name and email address when you do not have an account but are in contact with Funda or visit our office (for example, because you provide us with services or are our partner).

Why does Funda process personal data?

In short, it is necessary to process personal data in order to provide and improve our services, and to ensure our platform remains secure, fast and always available. It is also necessary to process personal data in order for our customer contact to run smoothly. In addition, we use your personal data for marketing purposes.

By marketing purposes, we mean (market) analyses, statistical research, sending newsletters, targeted advertisements and other content and profiling (see below 'What about profiling?'). When we process personal data based on an agreement with you or because of a legal obligation, the provision of that personal data is a necessary condition to be able to use our services and products. Required and optional fields will be indicated as such.

Below is a detailed description of which personal data we process for which purpose and the legal grounds for doing so.

We use security measures such as hashing to limit the privacy impact.
Identification in order to implement requests from data subjects	I. Identification data	Legal obligation (art. 12 subsection 6 GDPR)
Building security	J. CCTV-recordings	Legitimate interest: we secure our building in various ways, including CCTV. CCTV recordings are retained for 4 weeks.

How does Funda obtain personal data?

Most of the personal data we have at our disposal is provided by you as a user to Funda. This happens for example when you create an account, make an inquiry with or for an agent, purchase a presentation package or promotional product on the advice of your agent, use another service such as the Funda 'Waardecheck' or when you contact Funda.

With regard to data that we obtain through Funda's social media channels that you use yourself, we refer to the information under 'What about social media?'

In addition, Funda processes automatically generated data, such as the page you visited, your IP address and browser data. This is done using cookies or similar technologies (for more information see our cookie policy).

Funda also considers Object data to be personal data, insofar as these can be traced back to an individual. Funda obtains this information through the agent who works on behalf of the seller/buyer or landlord/tenant. The agent uses the distribution system of the Nederlandse Vereniging van Makelaars en Taxateurs NVM. Funda also obtains Object data from the Kadaster, such as living area and an Object's year of construction.

When you pass on your e-mail address to a real estate agent, the real estate agent can pass on your e-mail address to Funda, so that the Object you offer can be linked to your account. After such a link you will get extra information about your Object and after selling or renting the Object you can leave a review about your real estate agent. You can also leave a review about your real estate agent if you are a buyer or tenant: at your request, the agent will pass on your e-mail address to Funda so that you can use this service. If you already have an account with Funda you can also ask Funda to link your account to your Object or to an Object that you have purchased or rented. Funda only does this after verifying your identity with your agent.

In addition to the data you provide to us and the information we collect when you use the Funda platform, we also obtain information from partners. For example, we receive data from a data analytics company that provides insights into the characteristics of neighbourhoods, properties, and households. We also use data clean rooms to securely match data from advertisers with our own data in a privacy-friendly way. Before the matching process, the data is pseudonymized, ensuring that neither party has access to each other's personal data. For more details, see below under 'What about profiling?'

This process (including the matching of personal data) takes place under the joint responsibility of Funda and the advertising partner. Funda currently works with Samsung, VriendenLoterij and Nationale Postcode Loterij as advertising partners. If you wish to exercise your rights in relation to the matching of personal data, you can contact Funda as described under the heading "Questions or comments?".

How long is personal data stored?

We only keep your personal data for as long as we need it for the purpose for which we process it or to comply with our legal obligations. We use the following criteria to determine how long we keep data:

- If you use our services, such as creating an account, we will retain your personal data for as long as we need it to provide and improve that service. Or until the moment you want to delete them.

- If you have given your consent to receive e-mails, we will retain your personal data until you withdraw your consent. Once you do so, Funda will retain personal data necessary to demonstrate when you gave your consent and when you withdrew it.
- If you decide to leave an agent review, Funda will show this review for a maximum of 2 years on the Funda platform, until you delete it yourself, you instruct Funda to do so or until the agent completely disables the ability to leave reviews.
- Payment details are retained by our payment service provider for 7 years after payment, insofar as necessary to comply with statutory record-keeping and tax obligations.
- Personal profiles maintained by Funda based on profiling (see below under 'What about profiling?') are stored for a maximum of 5 years.
- We retain your account details as provided by you by creating an account as long as this information is necessary for the provision and improvement of our services and to optimize your experience as an individual user of the Funda platform. When there is no activity during 90 consecutive days, you will be signed out automatically. In case of three consecutive years of inactivity, we put your account on “inactive” and we will inform you about this. Sixty days after this notification, your account will be deleted permanently. After this period, we only use your details in anonymous form, for internal reports. You can also delete your account yourself, or notify us via privacy@funda.nl that you want to delete your account.
- In principle, we publish Object data for 1 year after the date on which the Object was deregistered as sold. The agent concerned can also indicate earlier that an Object may no longer be published on the Funda platform. We retain Object data for as long as we need it for the provision and improvement of our services and for monitoring market developments.
- Object data we obtain from the Land Registry are refreshed monthly.
- We retain identification data received to carry out your request as long as we need this data to fulfil your request, with a maximum retention period of 30 days.
- We retain voice recordings that are created when you contact us by telephone for no longer than 6 months after the recording.
- If cookies or similar technologies are placed on your computer, we indicate their retention period in our cookie policy.

Who does Funda share personal information with?

For the purposes described above (see 'Why does Funda process data?') we work with third parties. We often share (part of) your personal data with them.

If you leave your details on our platform to purchase a certain service, we will (if necessary) share your personal details with the party providing the service, such as an agent or financial services provider. Such as, in case of contact requests for an agent or if you request a mortgage offer from a financial service provider via our platform.

If, on the advice of your agent, you purchase a presentation package or additional promotional product from Funda, we share your order details with your agent so that they can manage your property on Funda as effectively as possible.

We also work, for example, with parties who take care of communication for Funda and monitor the platform. In addition, we share your data with our hosting parties, research and analysis agencies, advertising platforms, the supplier of our data management platform, and (other) data processors acting on our behalf.

When third party advertisements are placed on our platform, it is possible that third parties collect personal data, such as your click behaviour on the Funda platform. For more information about this, see our cookie policy. These third parties may also display advertisements relevant to an Object, such as an ad about fiber-optic internet if available at a specific address. In this context, Funda shares the listing-URL with the advertiser for the duration of the user's session on the Funda platform.

Funda, of course, publishes Object data on the Funda platform, making it visible to anyone visiting the Funda platform. In addition, Funda sends Object data via e-mail or push-notification to a user if they fit within his search criteria. We share Object data via our social media channels. A user also has the possibility to share Objects on social media or via e-mail with others using the Funda platform. Furthermore, Funda offers agents and selected parties (such as municipalities) the possibility to display Objects on their website (using an inline frame ("iFrame")).

Agents can choose to show the agent reviews you place on the Funda platform on their website using an iFrame.

Should it happen that (one or more parts of) the company Funda is transferred to a third party, then as part of this takeover the personal data that Funda processes can also be transferred to this third party. If this situation occurs, Funda will inform you promptly via the Funda platform.

International transfer of personal data

Funda is a Dutch party, just like many of the parties we work with. Because of this, we store your personal data within the European Economic Area ("EEA") whenever possible. In the event that personal data needs to be transferred to countries outside the EEA, such as when dealing with external suppliers located there, we take measures to ensure that your personal data is adequately protected and handled securely. In cases where the European Commission has not issued an adequacy decision for a specific country, Funda uses official model contracts drawn up specifically to safeguard your privacy rights effectively. Additionally, Funda also uses the Data Privacy Framework for secure transfers to the US.

How does Funda protect personal data?

To prevent someone else from unlawfully using or processing your personal data, we have taken appropriate technical and organisational measures. We use physical (access) security, passwords, password encryption, bot detection, encryption (of storage and communication channels) and pseudonymisation of data. We take these measures partly on the basis of our security policy, which we regularly evaluate and amend where necessary.

As part of the organisational measures taken, we have made agreements with third parties that process your personal data, including agreements on the technical and organisational measures to be implemented.

What about social media?

Funda does not include any functionalities of social media, such as like buttons or pixels, on the Funda platform.

We do have profiles on social media channels such as X and Facebook and link to them on the Funda platform. This privacy notice of Funda applies to the processing of personal data obtained by Funda via a social media channel. All of the information that the social media channel obtains from you, falls under the social media channel's own privacy notice. You can find this here:

- Facebook: <https://www.facebook.com/privacy/explanation/>
- X: <https://x.com/nl/privacy>
- LinkedIn: https://www.linkedin.com/legal/privacy-policy?_l=nl_NL
- YouTube: <https://policies.google.com/privacy?hl=nl>
- Instagram: <https://help.instagram.com/155833707900388>

To simplify the process of creating an account and to log in, you have the option to use your Apple, Facebook or Google account. Depending on your settings with these providers, we may receive certain (personal) data about you, such as your e-mail address. This data is used to identify you (authentication) and to create your account on Funda. For more information about the data we receive from you, the legal basis for this processing, and how to manage your settings, we refer to the website of the respective provider:

- Apple: manage settings and privacy policy
- Google: manage settings and privacy policy
- Facebook: manage settings and privacy policy

Funda and Facebook are joint controllers for the personal data collected when you use the Facebook login. Funda has entered into a "Joint Controller Addendum" (agreement) with Facebook, which outlines the responsibilities of both parties. If you wish to exercise your rights, you can submit a request to Funda (as described below). However, if you wish to exercise your rights regarding data collection by Facebook after using the functionality, you must contact Facebook directly.

If you share an Object from the Funda platform via a social media channel, Funda only sends the information of the Object to the relevant social media channel. Funda can also place Object data on Funda's social media channels.

What about iFrames and other third-party websites?

On the Funda platform, services and information are also offered by third parties in a so-called iFrame. iFrames are embedded within the Funda platform, however the content thereof is not managed by Funda, but by the third party that offers you services or information in the iFrame. An example is the monthly cost indicator, which allows you to calculate what your estimated mortgage charge would be if you bought a particular Object. The personal data you enter in the iFrame will go directly to the third party and will be subject to the privacy and cookie policy of that third party. Funda does not process this personal data. If an iFrame is being used, we clearly indicate this on our platform.

In addition, if a link to another person's website is shown on the Funda platform (such as an agent), or if we link to someone else's website (such as Matterport Inc. for 3D tours), the privacy and cookie policy of that other party applies to your visit to that website. Funda's privacy notice does not apply to the data you leave on that site and/or the data processed on that site.

What about profiling?

In short, profiling is the collection of characteristics, interests and data about you as a user. Based on this, a profile is created, so that you can receive targeted and relevant information. Funda does this on the basis of data that we generate using cookies and similar technologies (see our cookie policy).

We may enrich your profile. We do this by linking various categories of data we process about you, such as account information, information about the way you use the Funda platform, and data obtained from partners. By enriching your profile, we optimize our services and make your experience on Funda more relevant, enabling us to better tailor content to your interests.

Funda only uses profiling to personalize information and to display mailings, content and advertisements relevant to you. Objects and other content are not withheld from you based on these activities.

If you do not (or no longer) want to have a personalized experience on Funda based on your enriched profile, you can object at any time by adjusting your account settings (under the heading 'Personal information'). Additionally, you can manage your consent to the placement of cookies through your cookie preferences in our cookie policy.

What are your rights?

You have control over your personal data. You are entitled to clear, transparent and understandable information. You can always view, modify or delete the personal data you have entered through your account. In addition, you can contact us to view the personal data from you that Funda processes, free of charge. You can also request that Funda changes or deletes your personal data. We may also transfer personal data under certain circumstances. Moreover, you can request that we limit the processing of your personal data.

You may always object to the processing of your personal data where we do this on the basis of legitimate interests. In your account settings, under the section 'Personal Information,' you can object to personalisation on Funda described above, by checking the tickbox.

Where we use your personal data on the basis of your consent, you can withdraw that consent at any time. For example, if you have subscribed to a Funda newsletter and no longer wish to receive it, you can always unsubscribe (thus withdrawing your consent) by clicking unsubscribe in a newsletter. You can also unsubscribe via your account.

You can easily remove or block cookies and similar technologies yourself. See our cookie policy.

If you make a request regarding how we handle your personal data, we may ask you to identify yourself if necessary. If you send us a copy of your passport or other proof of identification for that purpose, we will ask you to make your passport photo and citizen service number illegible in the manner indicated here:

<https://www.government.nl/faq/how-do-i-prevent-a-copy-of-my-id-being-used-for-fraudulent-activities>

Questions or comments?

Do you have any questions or comments about privacy at Funda? Do you disagree with the way in which Funda processes personal data about you? Or would you like to get in touch with the data protection officer at Funda?

Please send an e-mail to privacy@funda.nl.

We take all questions, comments and requests seriously and would like to stay in touch with you about your privacy at Funda, even if there is something you are not satisfied with. Of course, we prefer to resolve complaints with you directly, but you also have the opportunity to submit a complaint to the Data Protection Authority.

This privacy notice was amended on 19 August 2026, and is therefore the 16th version. Funda reserves the right to change this privacy notice and advises you to check this page regularly. Changes in our privacy notice will be announced by e-mail or on our platform.
