

LAURENTIAN BANK

As a follow-up to our December 2, 2025 announcement of the acquisition transaction between Laurentian Bank and Fairstone Bank and the Retail/SME transaction between Laurentian Bank and National Bank, we are committed to keeping you informed at each key milestone.

Today, we are sharing that Laurentian Bank shareholders have voted in favour of the acquisition transaction with Fairstone Bank. The Retail/SME transaction with National Bank is conditional on all conditions precedent to the closing of the acquisition transaction with Fairstone Bank having been satisfied or waived and will occur immediately prior to the closing of such acquisition transaction. Our next milestone is to obtain the required regulatory approvals.

Supporting you every step of the way

For now, nothing is changing — our activities continue as usual, and we remain committed to providing you with our regular banking services. You may continue to carry out your banking transactions as you normally do.

As a reminder, when the time comes, your banking relationship will be transitioned to National Bank. No action is required from you. You will receive advance notice with clear instructions to make the transition to National Bank as smooth as possible and we will ensure that the communication with you is transparent, and that you will be supported at every step.

Keeping you informed

We know that transitions can raise questions, and we are committed to keeping you informed well in advance of any changes. We will continue to update our dedicated web page with any new information and resources as they become available, including answers to frequently asked questions.

You can visit the page here:
