

An empty desk tells a story. Together, we can rewrite it for your students.

Our timely webinars in August and September address school avoidance, absenteeism, and back-to-school blues. These important conversations will help caregivers and other adults support kids and families as they get ready to take on a new school year.

Tuesday, August 6, 2026
12–12:45pm PST

Helping kids show up — a guide to reducing school absenteeism

For kids, school can bring excitement, learning, and connection. It can also bring big feelings like fear, worry, sadness, or overwhelm that sometimes make attendance difficult. Join us to learn more about the factors that can make getting to school hard and how trusted adults can help kids show up consistently with confidence.

Register today

Thursday, September 10, 2026
12–12:45pm PST

A brighter fall — supporting kids through back-to-school blues

School can bring more than just stress — it can bring sadness, low energy, and a feeling of being stuck. In this webinar, we'll explore gentle ways to support kids through tough school days, friendship struggles, and big feelings about the world around them.

Register today

