

Ashleigh Kate, "Art Shows to Leave the House For This October," Dazed, October 10, 2022

DAZED

Art shows to leave the house for this October

ART & PHOTOGRAPHY — LISTS

From Wolfgang Tillmans' new MoMA show to David LaChapelle's larger-than-life photoshoots, we round up the exhibitions you need to see this month

For this month's round-up, Wolfgang Tillmans unveils a new MoMA show, photographer Kalpesh Lathigra imagines an alternative reality where his family never left India to live in the UK, and Ian Cheng releases an eight-part anime series featuring his experimental AI BOB. Elsewhere, David LaChapelle brings his larger-than-life photographs to Fotografiska, and Frieze returns to London.

Photography Andrea Rossetti

Ian Cheng: Life After BOB

Never one to shy away from confronting our dystopian realities, artist Ian Cheng's experimental AI BOB returns with Life After BOB: The Chalice Study, asking: "What if AI could do the job of living your life better than you?" Across an eight-part anime series, the tension between technology, human free will and desire was tested – with disastrous consequences.

This exhibition expands on this by bringing the animation into a physical installation, set in a frighteningly close 2074

Runs until November 6, 2022